U. S. Clarifies Its Stand on Atomic Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials said today the United States is prepared to accept suspension of atomic weapons tests only under a first-step disarmament agreement providing also for halting production of nuclear weapons.

President Eisenhower had created the impression at a news conference Wednesday that the United States might have reversed its policy on banning tests and might be about to accept a Russian proposal for a test moratorium separated from other major disarmament proposals.

A few hours later, however, the White House explained that the President "did not imply and it was not intended to imply that we would consider suspension of tests in isolation" from other arms control considerations. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said there had been no change in policy.

The President's replies to questions on disarmament caused a stir because two weeks ago he he had said the United States could end tests only on assurance that atomic weapons would not be used in future warfare. The measure of this assurance has been widely regarded in Washington as an agreement to stop the production of such weapons and to begin the reduction of atomic weapons stockpiles.

EISENHOWER was asked about a week-old Soviet proposal for a two-or three-year moratorium on test explosions, along with establishment of an international commission to manage the agreement and an inspection system to police it.

"These are hopeful signs, as I see them, and they deserve the most earnest and sympathetic study," the President said. He added that the United States wanted to know all the details because "generalization is one thing, to see how it works is another."

LONDON (AP) — Harold Stassen told the disarmament conference today the United States is ready to cut back its armed forces to 2½ million men as part of a limited East-West disarmament teraty — if Russia does the same.

The American delegate's statement at a session of the United Nations disarmament group here made it clear the United States was attaching no political preconditions to the proposal.

He said, however it must be related to an agreement providing for a suspension of nuclear weapon tests.

Fugitives Run Down in Field

Reformatory Escapees Captured Near Here

Two youthful razor-carrying escapees from the Chillicothe Federal Reformatory were captured about midnight Wednesday in a dew-covered Fayette County barley field — just half an hour after they allegedly stole an auto in Washington C. H.

The car, belonging to O. W. Landrum, 502 E. Paint St., was recovered at the same time.

Taken into custody were Marlin Vern Herzog, 18 of Vulcan, Mich., and Earl Curtis Muse, 19, of Sanford, Fla., both of whom have prior records of auto theft.

They escaped from a tractor detail at the reformatory farm Sunday afternoon and had not had a thing to eat since they told officers.

SITTING IN the living room of his home, Mr. and Mrs. Landrum spotted the pair as they allegedly fled west on E. Paint St. with the car. Landrum called police immediately, and Deputy Sheriffs Lawrence Mickle and Charles Hays had the report within minutes.

Travelling east on Creamer Rd. a few minutes later, Hays and Mickle fired two warning shots.

The auto skidded to a stop and the two scattered into the field, where Mickle and Hays finally captured them.

Officers theorized the pair had been hiding in the woods during the 80 hours they had been missing. They were wearing the clothes they escaped in and claimed they had not eaten all the time they were gone.

Roman Wright Former Jeff Mayor, Dies

A native of Beaver, Pike County, he had been a resident of Jeffersonville since 1913. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

He is survived by his wife, Catherine; three sons, Ben Wright, Washington C. H. restaurant owner, John of Dayton and William, Springfield; a daughter, Mrs. Nellie Hauck, Dayton, and nine grandchildren.

Services will be at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Alvin G. Little Funeral Home, Jeffersonville, with burial in Fairview Cemetery there.

Carrier Mishap Fatal To Two; Five Injured

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt limped into port early today, the victim of its second accident at sea in two months.

On board were two dead and five seriously injured crewmen. They were sprayed by live steam which spewed out when a pump exploded deep inside the 45,000-ton warship Wednesday.

Twenty-nine other crewmen were stricken with heat prostration or exhaustion, many of them in efforts to rescue trapped comrades.

Capt. T. W. Hopkins credited heroism and the fine training of U.S. Navy men with holding down the number of casualties. He said "I can't pinpoint one single man" for heroism; "all are equally deserving of praise."

FIFTY to 60 men entered the fierce steam for rescue work or to help confine damage.

A board of investigation met to determine the extent of damage. The explosion blew pieces of the pump through two bulkheads as well as the steam lines. Hopkins said, however, he did not think the ship would need drydocking for repairs.

Hopkins told newsmen the ship was on a routine training exercise when the accident occurred at 12:42 p. m. about 100 miles off the coast.

Hopkins said the explosion occurred "about midships in the pump room on the fourth or fifth deck below the hangar deck."

The two men killed were on watch in a compartment adjoining the pump room. Live steam got to them through an open hatch.

Hopkins listed the dead as Bobby E. Hyder, 22, boiler attendant third class, Spartanburg, S. C.; and Sidney R. Wall, 20, fireman, Norwood, S. C.

Board Holds Power Over Bond Issuance

There is nothing to indicate that the General Assembly intended to hold in abeyance the authority of a board of education to issue bonds simply because a Citizens Committee might make a recommendation, the Ohio Supreme Court held Wednesday afternoon in a ruling on a key phase of a suit brought by the Miami Trace Board of Education.

All seven judges concurred in sustaining the board's demurrer to the contention of its clerk, Mrs. Senath Thompson, that the existence of a Fayette County Citizens Committee suspends the board's power to issue $1,652,500 in bonds for school construction and improvements approved by Miami Trace district voters last November.

Mrs. Thompson had taken this stand to provide a test case.

(A demurrer simply is a pleading which, for the sake of argument, admits facts as pleaded but says that these facts do not constitute an adequate defense at law).

THE HIGH COURT did not grant the board's request for a writ of mandamus compelling Mrs. Thompson to sell the bonds, but instead granted the clerk 20 days in which to plead further if she so desired.

Her counsel, Richard Rankin, had requested the right to amend her answer if the Miami Trace bond counsel, Squire, Sanders and Dempsey of Cleveland, are not satisfied with the court proceedings to date. The attitude of the bond counsel is the key to the situation at present.

The Miami Trace board, which hopes to proceed with its school building program as soon as possible, now awaits the advice of its attorney, Miss Grace Fern Heck, Springfield, before proceeding. Miss Heck this morning had not yet received a copy of the decision and could make no comment to a Record - Herald representative.

THE SUPREME COURT, in sustaining the Miami Trace board's demurrer, pointed out that an examination of the Citizens Committee law "discloses that the powers of a citizens committee are limited to the making of a report recommending the continuance of an existing school system or a plan of reorganization. The function of the committee is recommendatory and advisory only. Its duty is limited to making a report, and it is without power to carry its recommendations into effect. The authority to carry into effect any recommendation which might be made by the committee is, by the statute, placed in the superintendent of public instruction, the county board of education and, finally, the electors of the district involved."

"There is nothing to indicate that (in enacting the Citizens Committee law) the General Assembly intended to hold in abeyance the authority of a board of education to issue bonds to carry out an educational program pending the POSSIBLE recommendation of a citizens committee, whose only power is to recommend and advise, or to

Here's What Court Said:

This action in mandamus was instituted in this court by the Board of Education of the Miami Trace Local School District, Fayette County, against the clerk of that board. The petition alleges that relator adopted a resolution declaring the necessity of issuing bonds for the acquisition of real estate, construction of fireproof school buildings, improvement of nonfireproof school buildings and provision of furnishings therefor; to levy a tax outside the 10 - mill limitation to pay interest on and retire the bonds; and to submit to the electors the question of issuing the bonds. The petition sets forth in chronological order the steps taken by relator, the county auditor and the county board of education to issue the bonds, and alleges further the submission of the question to the electors, the favorable result thereof, the passage of the resolution by relator to issue the bonds, and respondent's refusal to certify the resolution to the county auditor and to advertise the bonds for sale.

The prayer of the petition is for a writ commanding respondent to certify to the county auditor the bond - issuing resolution, to advertise and sell the bonds, and to execute and deliver the bonds to the purchaser.

The respondent, in her answer, does not take issue with the allegations of the petition relative to relator's compliance with the requirements of the Uniform Bond Act but by way of defense alleges in detail the creation of a citizens committee, as provided by Section 3311.30, Revised Code, with the powers and duties set forth in Section 3311.31, Revised Code; that the committee is functioning, has had several meetings but has not made any report or recommendations; and that, so long as the citizens committee continues to function, "the power and authority of the relator board of education to make transfers of territory, issue bonds and do any other act or thing which may nullify or affect the report, plan of reorganization or recommendations of said citizens committee is suspended."

The prayer of the answer is that the petition be dismissed.

It appears from the pleadings that the the citizens committee was selected afte, the election authorizing the issuance of the bonds but before the relator adopted the resolution to issue the bonds.

The relator has filed a demur-

Chief Justice Declines To Waive Judges Aside

The Ohio Supreme Court chief justice yesterday refused to prevent two appellate judges from hearing an attempt to remove Common Pleas Judge John Case from the Walls embezzlement case.

But Justice Carl V. Weygandt suggested that Judges William C. Wiseman and Roscoe G. Hornbeck of the Second District might step aside from a hearing on a request for a writ or prohibition against Jude Case.

The writ was sought by Beverly Clickner Walls to prevent Judge Case from sitting at her trail on charges of embezzling $8,874 while employed by the Washington C. H. Board of Education. She pleaded innocent and was released under bond.

"I shall hold that I am not warranted in unbenching these judges," the chief justice announced after a conference in chambers for nearly two hours with the three judges. "They are free now to act as if the affidavit was never filed."

COMMENTING further, Weygandt added: "But if I were that judge, I would certinly step aside." He said such action would not be admitting bias. "Not at all," he emphasized.

Both appellate judges asserted they could not say at this time what they would do. Judge Case observed that he might step out of the Walls action but added: "I don't know yet. He is in Akron today.

During a prolonged hearing yesterday on the disqualification affidavits, Justice Weygandt asked the appellate judges to offer further reasons why they should be permitted to hear the writ of prohibition against Judge Case.

The chief justice recalled that both appellate judges twice stood aside durin the disbarment hearings for J. Harvey Crow of Urbana, who, for a time, was attorney for Judge Case contended their disqualification in his case.

Judge Case had been temporarily restrained from acting in the Walls case, pending hearing on the request for a permannet writ.

The Ohio Supreme Court has refused J. Harvey Crow, Urbana attorney, a stay of execution of a lower court's disbarment decision. This means that Crow cannot practice until his appeal of the disbarment order to the high court has been decided.

Court Holds Axle Mile Tax Constitutional

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 1953 axle mile tax on trucks with three axles or more has been ruled constitutional by the Ohio Supreme Court.

The 15 million dollar a year tax, first levied Oct 1, 1953, was declared valid in a unanimous high court decision Wednesday. The tax was designed to help finance the state's highway construction program through issuance of bonds.

Tax Commissioner Stanley J. Bowers said axle tax assessments held in abeyance total nearly 9½ million dollars. But the commissioner said he would wait to see whether an appeal was carried to the U.S. Supreme Court before acting to collect the levies.

Challenging the tax was the George F. Alger Co., a Michigan firm operating trucks in Ohio, Michigan and Indiana. The company appealed a ruling by the Board of Tax Appeals upholding the tax against Alger. The Supreme Court's decision upheld the Board of Tax Appeals.

Bolts Kill Guardsmen

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) — Lightning struck twice within 10 minutes, killed two National Guardsmen and knocked over soldiers "like bowling pins" on this Army paratrooper base Wednesday night.

The base hospital called in off-duty personnel to handle the 48 patients who poured in for treatment for five or six hours after the fierce electrical storm swept across Ft. Bragg. Field aid stations gave first aid treatment on the spot.

The army identified the victims as Sgt. 1.C Walter Lee Milam, 26, and PFC Arthur Belton Norris Jr., 19, both of Kannapolis, N. C.

Units of the 30th (Old Hickory) Division of the North Carolina National Guard bore the brunt of the storm's attack. The 8,000 Tar Heel guardsmen were encamped for summer training in a wooded area 10 miles west of the main portion of the base.

STRIKING at suppertime, the lightning skipped around the bivouac area as many of the soldiers stood in chow line, mess kits in hand.

"The men in front of me were knocked down like bowling pins," one soldier said. My metal mess gear was wrenched from my hand and bent all out of shape."

Another recalled "The ground shook something terrible and my feet felt like the ground was sizzling—just burning up."

After the first flash one guardsman removed his boots to see if his feet were injured "I just put my bare foot on the wet ground when another bolt struck like the first one," he said. "I was knocked to the ground along with other people in the tent."

AN ARMY spokesman said four of the injured were admitted to the hospital as patients, none seriously hurt. The other injured remained in the hospital overnight to catch up on their sleep before returning to their units.

More than three miles from the center of the storm damage one soldier was talking on a field telephone. A jolt of electricity threw him completely across a large tent.

Maj. David Wilkinson, unit chaplain from Charlotte, credited action of the men in the field with keeping any of the injured from being seriously hurt.

He said, "within seconds after the first shock men who themselves had been knocked down, and those who felt no effects from the jolts, were on their feet helping their buddies.

"The way those guardsmen kept their heads is a real credit to them and their unit."

Police Nab Fugitive Of Fatal Pursuit

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — John F. Graves, 23, Dayton, drew a $400 fine and six months in jail Wednesday after pleading guilty to assault and battery against Mrs. Blanche Urshell, 56, Dayton. Police said that, while Graves was chasing Mrs. Urshell, Donald Quinton, 39, also of Dayton, came to her aid and chased Graves. In the pursuit, Quinton attempted to jump over a hedge, landed on a spike fence, police said, and was killed.

Sailor Dies in Lake

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP) —While attempting to swim Lime Kiln Lake near Zoar Wednesday night, Glen A. Kalil, 23, of Canton, drowned, Tuscarawas County Sheriff K. D. Hiller reported. Kalil was on leave from the U.S. Navy.

Ohio Turnpike Mishap Claims Second Victim

CLEVELAND (AP) — Hynam Greenfarb, 55, of Forest Hills, N. Y., died today in Marymount Hospital of injuries received in an Ohio Turnpike accident Sunday. Greenfarb's wife, Selma, 55, was killed instantly in the crash near the U.S. 21 interchange.

Fugitive Slayer Back In Ohio Prison Custody

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Penitentiary Warden Ralph Alvis said today escaped slayer Arthur F. Benner, 29, was returned to the state institution Wednesday night.

Benner, arrested June 12 in Reno, Nev., was serving a life term for the slaying of a Fremont policeman in 1948. He escaped five weeks ago.

Farmers Vote Today On Marketing Quotas

Fayette County farmers were going to the polls Thursday to register their own decisions on wheat marketing quotas in the nationwide referendum.

They were casting their votes in polling places set up in each of the county's 10 rural townships.

The vote being cast was on marketing quotas and not on allotments, which are in effect every year unless suspended by an emergency.

Trend of the voting in Fayette County in this year's referendum is uncertain, because most of the voting places are in township halls which do not have telephones.

However, only nine had voted at the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee office on Delaware St. here by noon. This is the voting place for Union Township farmers.

Last year, 176 Fayette County farmers voted for the marketing quotas and 72 voted against them.

A favorable vote of at least two-thirds of those voting in the referendum is required to put the marketing quotas into effect.

Sen. Gore Points To Humphrey's Holdings To Ask 'Who Benefited?'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) said today a steep increase in the value of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey's 1953 stock holdings illustrates "who has benefited" from Eisenhower administration monetary policies.

"I said before the Finance Committee investigation started that one of our objectives should be to find out who has benefited from these monetary policies," Gore said in an interview. "Here in the secretary we have a notable example."

Humphrey voluntarily submitted a list of his January 1953 stock holdings to the Senate Finance Committee Wednesday. He did not say whether he has retained his major stock holdings of four years ago, when he entered the Cabinet.

Humphrey's statement showed that the time he entered the Cabinet he owned 67,500 shares of M. A. Hanna Co. stock as well as 46,169 shares of other securities, largely in coal and steel. He formerly was president of the Hanna Co.

A COMPUTATION showed most of the holdings were worth just under seven million dollars in January 1953 and had a quoted value of about $12,600,000 based on Wednesday closing prices. This was an increase over four years of 85 per cent.

In addition, there was a block of stock Humphrey held in Hanna Coal & Ore Corp., but no information was available on the value of this stock in 1953. According to information from brokers, this stock was worth more than two million dollars last April.

Sen. Carlson (R-Kan), a Finance Committee member, said in a separate interview he saw nothing unusual in the gain in value in the securities.

"It is just striking evidence," he said "of the economic health and growth of the country. This is shown in the stock market and in many other industries."

Gore told the Senate he wanted to congratulate Sen. Byrd (D-Va), Finance Committee chairman on "his withering examination" of Humphrey at the hearing Wednesday. The Tennessean said Byrd "was ferreting out truths glossed over" in Humphrey's opening statement Tuesday.

The secretary backed down from his statement Tuesday that the Eisenhower administration has reduced the federal debt after Byrd had insisted the debt actually had increased almost nine billion dollars in the last four years.

Byrd also challenged Humphrey's assertion the administration has cut government spending, but the secretary insisted he was right on that.

Humphrey agreed with Byrd's statement that a prolonged further rise in federal spending could send the country "over the precipice of financial disaster."

Miami Trace Board Acts On School Site Option

The Miami Trace Board of Education decided at a regular meeting Wednesday night to notify Thurman Plummer, Jeffersonville Rd., of its acceptance of an option on a 25 - acre tract at Eber which has been selected as the site of a new Miami Trace high school.

The board will pay Plummer $1,000 on the option in accordance with a previous agreement, and this sum will apply on the total purchase price of $12,500—or $500 per acre. The option would have expired July 1.

The tract lies at the northeast corner of the intersection of the Bloomingburg - New Holland Rd. and Route 70.

THE BOARD also went on record as opposing the transfer of the 167-acre Baker Addition, Elm St. and Greenfield Rd., to the city of Washington C. H. for school purposes. The board took the stand that since no students are now involved in the undeveloped addition, the Miami Trace district could serve the area as well as the city school district.

A hearing on a request for transfer to the city school district will be held in the State Office Bldg. Columbus at 10 a. m. Friday on request of Superintendent W. A. Smith acting in behalf of the Washington C. H. board of education. The hearing will be in Room 601.

The Baker Addition already has been annexed to the city for other than school purposes.

IN OTHER ACTION the Miami Trace board:

Accepted the resignation of Mrs. Edith Love as cook at Jeffersonville and employed Mrs. Olive Mitchell as a replacement;

Reemployed Mrs. Beth Goldsberry as assistant board clerk with a $10-per-month increase bringing her salary to $2,100 a year on a 12-months basis;

Made arrangements to comply with a new state law altering warning lights on school buses (the board will install automatic door switches as an additional manual switches and an additional manual automatic switch on the brake pedal);

Decided to renew depositories at the Good Hope Bank and the Washington Savings Bank.

The petition sets forth in chronological order the steps taken by relator, the county auditor and the county board of education to issue the bonds, and alleges further the submission of the question to the electors, the favorable result thereof, the passage of the resolution by relator to issue the bonds, and respondent's refusal to certify the resolution to the county auditor and to advertise the bonds for sale.

The prayer of the petition is for a writ commanding respondent to certify to the county auditor the bond - issuing resolution, to advertise and sell the bonds, and to execute and deliver the bonds to the purchaser.

The respondent, in her answer, does not take issue with the allegations of the petition relative to relator's compliance with the requirements of the Uniform Bond Act but by way of defense alleges in detail the creation of a citizens committee, as provided by Section 3311.30, Revised Code, with the powers and duties set forth in Section 3311.31, Revised Code; that the committee is functioning, has had several meetings but has not made any report or recommendations; and that, so long as the citizens committee continues to function, "the power and authority of the relator board of education to make transfers of territory, issue bonds and do any other act or thing which may nullify or affect the report, plan of reorganization or recommendations of said citizens committee is suspended."

The prayer of the answer is that the petition be dismissed.

It appears from the pleadings that the citizens committee was selected after the election authorizing the issuance of the bonds but before the relator adopted the resolution to issue the bonds.

The relator has filed a demur-

Bolts Kill Guardsmen

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) — Lightning struck twice within 10 minutes, killed two National Guardsmen and knocked over soldiers "like bowling pins" on this Army paratrooper base Wednesday night.

The base hospital called in off-duty personnel to handle the 48 patients who poured in for treatment for five or six hours after the fierce electrical storm swept across Ft. Bragg. Field aid stations gave first aid treatment on the spot.

The army identified the victims as Sgt. 1.C Walter Lee Milam, 26, and PFC Arthur Belton Norris Jr., 19, both of Kannapolis, N. C.

Units of the 30th (Old Hickory) Division of the North Carolina National Guard bore the brunt of the storm's attack. The 8,000 Tar Heel guardsmen were encamped for summer training in a wooded area 10 miles west of the main portion of the base.

STRIKING at suppertime, the lightning skipped around the bivouac area as many of the soldiers stood in chow line, mess kits in hand.

"The men in front of me were knocked down like bowling pins," one soldier said. My metal mess gear was wrenched from my hand and bent all out of shape."

Another recalled "The ground shook something terrible and my feet felt like the ground was sizzling—just burning up."

After the first flash one guardsman removed his boots to see if his feet were injured "I just put my bare foot on the wet ground when another bolt struck like the first one," he said. "I was knocked to the ground along with other people in the tent."

AN ARMY spokesman said four of the injured were admitted to the hospital as patients, none seriously hurt. The other injured remained in the hospital overnight to catch up on their sleep before returning to their units.

More than three miles from the center of the storm damage one soldier was talking on a field telephone. A jolt of electricity threw him completely across a large tent.

Maj. David Wilkinson, unit chaplain from Charlotte, credited action of the men in the field with keeping any of the injured from being seriously hurt.

He said, "within seconds after the first shock men who themselves had been knocked down, and those who felt no effects from the jolts, were on their feet helping their buddies.

"The way those guardsmen kept their heads is a real credit to them and their unit."

Farmers Vote Today On Marketing Quotas

Fayette County farmers were going to the polls Thursday to register their own decisions on wheat marketing quotas in the nationwide referendum.

They were casting their votes in polling places set up in each of the county's 10 rural townships.

The vote being cast was on marketing quotas and not on allotments, which are in effect every year unless suspended by an emergency.

Trend of the voting in Fayette County in this year's referendum is uncertain, because most of the voting places are in township halls which do not have telephones.

However, only nine had voted at the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee office on Delaware St. here by noon. This is the voting place for Union Township farmers.

Last year, 176 Fayette County farmers voted for the marketing quotas and 72 voted against them.

A favorable vote of at least two-thirds of those voting in the referendum is required to put the marketing quotas into effect.

Fugitive Slayer Back In Ohio Prison Custody

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Penitentiary Warden Ralph Alvis said today escaped slayer Arthur F. Benner, 29, was returned to the state institution Wednesday night.

Benner, arrested June 12 in Renc, Nev., was serving a life term for the slaying of a Fremont policeman in 1948. He escaped five weeks ago.

Chief Justice Declines To Waive Judges Aside

The Ohio Supreme Court chief justice yesterday refused to prevent two appellate judges from hearing an attempt to remove Common Pleas Judge John Case from the Walls embezzlement case.

But Justice Carl V. Weygandt suggested that Judges William C. Wiseman and Roscoe G. Hornbeck of the Second District might step aside from a hearing on a request for a writ or prohibition against Jude Case.

The writ was sought by Beverly Clickner Walls to prevent Judge Case from sitting at her trail on charges of embezzling $8,874 while employed by the Washington C. H. Board of Education. She pleaded innocent and was released under bond.

The Ohio Supreme Court has refused J. Harvey Crow, Urbana attorney, a stay of execution of a lower court's disbarment decision. This means that Crow cannot practice until his appeal of the disbarment order to the high court has been decided.

"I shall hold that I am not warranted in unbenching these judges," the chief justice announced after a conference in chambers for nearly two hours with the three judges. "They are free now to act as if the affidavit was never filed."

COMMENTING further, Weygandt added: "But if I were that judge, I would certinly step aside." He said such action would not be admitting bias. "Not at all," he emphasized.

Both appellate judges asserted they could not say at this time what they would do. Judge Case observed that he might step out of the Walls action but added: "I don't know yet. He is in Akron today.

During a prolonged hearing yesterday on the disqualification affidavits, Justice Weygandt asked the appellate judges to offer further reasons why they should be permitted to hear the writ of prohibition against Judge Case.

The chief justice recalled that both appellate judges twice stood aside durin the disbarment hearings for J. Harvey Crow of Urbana, who, for a time, was attorney for Judge Case contended their disqualification in his case.

Judge Case had been temporarily restrained from acting in the Walls case, pending hearing on the request for a permannet writ.

Court Holds Axle Mile Tax Constitutional

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 1953 axle mile tax on trucks with three axles or more has been ruled constitutional by the Ohio Supreme Court.

The 15 million dollar a year tax, first levied Oct 1, 1953, was declared valid in a unanimous high court decision Wednesday. The tax was designed to help finance the state's highway construction program through issuance of bonds.

Tax Commissioner Stanley J. Bowers said axle tax assessments held in abeyance total nearly 9½ million dollars. But the commissioner said he would wait to see whether an appeal was carried to the U.S. Supreme Court before acting to collect the levies.

Challenging the tax was the George F. Alger Co., a Michigan firm operating trucks in Ohio, Michigan and Indiana. The company appealed a ruling by the Board of Tax Appeals upholding the tax against Alger. The Supreme Court's decision upheld the Board of Tax Appeals.

Police Nab Fugitive Of Fatal Pursuit

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — John F. Graves, 23, Dayton, drew a $400 fine and six months in jail Wednesday after pleading guilty to assault and battery against Mrs. Blanche Urshell, 56, Dayton. Police said that, while Graves was chasing Mrs. Urshell, Donald Quinton, 39, also of Dayton, came to her aid and chased Graves. In the pursuit, Quinton attempted to jump over a hedge, landed on a spike fence, police said, and was killed.

Sen. Gore Points To Humphrey's Holdings To Ask 'Who Benefited?'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) said today a steep increase in the value of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey's 1953 stock holdings illustrates "who has benefited" from Eisenhower administration monetary policies.

"I said before the Finance Committee investigation started that one of our objectives should be to find out who has benefited from these monetary policies," Gore said in an interview. "Here in the secretary we have a notable example."

Humphrey voluntarily submitted a list of his January 1953 stock holdings to the Senate Finance Committee Wednesday. He did not say whether he has retained his major stock holdings of four years ago, when he entered the Cabinet.

Humphrey's statement showed that the time he entered the Cabinet he owned 67,500 shares of M. A. Hanna Co. stock as well as 46,169 shares of other securities, largely in coal and steel. He formerly was president of the Hanna Co.

A COMPUTATION showed most of the holdings were worth just under seven million dollars in January 1953 and had a quoted value of about $12,600,000 based on Wednesday closing prices. This was an increase over four years of 85 per cent.

In addition, there was a block of stock Humphrey held in Hanna Coal & Ore Corp., but no information was available on the value of this stock in 1953. According to information from brokers, this stock was worth more than two million dollars last April.

Sen. Carlson (R-Kan), a Finance Committee member, said in a separate interview he saw nothing unusual in the gain in value in the securities.

"It is just striking evidence," he said "of the economic health and growth of the country. This is shown in the stock market and in many other industries."

Gore told the Senate he wanted to congratulate Sen. Byrd (D-Va), Finance Committee chairman on "his withering examination" of Humphrey at the hearing Wednesday. The Tennessean said Byrd "was ferreting out truths glossed over" in Humphrey's opening statement Tuesday.

The secretary backed down from his statement Tuesday that the Eisenhower administration has reduced the federal debt after Byrd had insisted the debt actually had increased almost nine billion dollars in the last four years.

Byrd also challenged Humphrey's assertion the administration has cut government spending, but the secretary insisted he was right on that.

Humphrey agreed with Byrd's statement that a prolonged further rise in federal spending could send the country "over the precipice of financial disaster."

Miami Trace Board Acts On School Site Option

The Miami Trace Board of Education decided at a regular meeting Wednesday night to notify Thurman Plummer, Jeffersonville Rd., of its acceptance of an option on a 25 - acre tract at Eber which has been selected as the site of a new Miami Trace high school.

The board will pay Plummer $1,000 on the option in accordance with a previous agreement, and this sum will apply on the total purchase price of $12,500—or $500 per acre. The option would have expired July 1.

The tract lies at the northeast corner of the intersection of the Bloomingburg - New Holland Rd. and Route 70.

THE BOARD also went on record as opposing the transfer of the 167-acre Baker Addition, Elm St. and Greenfield Rd., to the city of Washington C. H. for school purposes. The board took the stand that since no students are now involved in the undeveloped addition, the Miami Trace district could serve the area as well as the city school district.

A hearing on a request for transfer to the city school district will be held in the State Office Bldg. Columbus at 10 a. m. Friday on request of Superintendent W. A. Smith acting in behalf of the Washington C. H. board of education. The hearing will be in Room 601.

The Baker Addition already has been annexed to the city for other than school purposes.

IN OTHER ACTION the Miami Trace board:

Accepted the resignation of Mrs. Edith Love as cook at Jeffersonville and employed Mrs. Olive Mitchell as a replacement;

Reemployed Mrs. Beth Goldsberry as assistant board clerk with a $10-per-month increase bringing her salary to $2,100 a year on a 12-months basis;

Made arrangements to comply with a new state law altering warning lights on school buses (the board will install automatic door switches as an additional manual switches and an additional manual automatic switch on the brake pedal);

Decided to renew depositories at the Good Hope Bank and the Washington Savings Bank.

Miami Trace Case

limit the power of a board of education to issue bonds under provisions of the Uniform Bond Act."

THE MIAMI TRACE board took its case to the Supreme Court April 15, posing this question:

Where a board of education, under authority of an election, has legally proceeded to pass a resolution to issue bonds of a local school district, does the appointment of a Citizens Committee between the date of the election and the date of the resolution to issue the bonds take away from the board of education its authority to issue them?

The petition asked that Mrs. Thompson be compelled to advertise and sell the bonds through a writ of mandamus.

The clerk, in her answer, declared that because a lower court decision in a taxpayers suit last February resulted in creation of a Citizens Committee, the board of education is without power to issue its bonds, and that as long as the Citizens Committee continues to function, the power and authority of the board to do anything which might nullify or otherwise affect a report, plan of organization or recommendations of the Citizens Committee is suspended.

THE MIAMI TRACE board demurred—or, in laymen's language, objected—to this defense, holding that the appointment of a Citizens Committee did not take away its authority and that there was no sound reason for holding the board's authority in abeyance pending action of a body whose only power, according to the Miami Trace brief, was to recommend.

Arguments were submitted to the high court on May 22.

The court also had given the Washington C. H. Board of Education and a group of six taxpayers who own real estate in Miami Trace district permission to file briefs as friends o the court. The city board's brief agreed with the position taken by the clerk of the Miami Trace board, holding that board powers had been suspended by the existence of a Citizens Committee, although asking to be included in a court decision.

THE TAXPAYERS' brief brought forth "facts and law necessary to a correct and just determination of the legal principles actually involved", and generally opposed the Miami Trace board's stand.

The Miami Trace bond issue, which provides for the purchase of land and the construction and equipping of a new high school at Eber, as well as improvement of existing buildings, was approved last November by a 57 per cent vote.

At the same time a city school district bond issue to raise $645,000 for providing needed grade school facilities, passed by slightly more than 60 per cent.

Probe Shifts To Loan Quiz

Baker Union Chief Slated To Return

WASHINGTON (AP) — James G. Cross, a former "pan greaser and fruit cook" who rose to be president of the Bakery Workers Union, was scheduled to return before the Senate Rackets Committee today for further questioning about alleged misconduct in office.

Awaiting Cross were questions about assertions that he okayed below-standard wages contracts for Zion Industries, Inc., Zion, Ill., while the brothers Herbert and Martin Philipsborn Sr., who are financially interested in the big baking and candy company, were loaning him about $100,000. Cross said he wants to tell about that and bring the loan issue into "focus."

In Chicago, Martin Philipsborn Jr. said his father made "substantial" loans to Cross, but that he did not know the amount. The younger Philipsborn said the loans had nothing to do with contract negotiations between the union and the firm.

The Elder Philipsborn's lawyer Harry N. Wyatt said the loans totaled about $96,000-$56,000 in 1955, and about $40,000 in 1956. The lawyer added that both loans were repaid in about three months.

FOR MORE than three hours Wednesday Cross was questioned about his expense accounts to the Union. Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said they totaled more than $39,000 in 1956, and that they included $15,000 to $20,000 for entertainment without supporting documents to show the money actually had been spent. Cross insisted the accounts were accurate.

Cross was quizzed sharply about his relations with Mrs. Kay Lower, a convicted Los Angeles prostitute whom he said he employed as an undercover organizer for the Bakers Union.

He refused to say whether he had any "personal dealings" with Mrs. Lower, contending the committee had no authority to ask such questions.

Twin Gives Kidney for Ailing Brother

BOSTON (AP) —A kidney transplant operation, in which Leonard Masden, 19, of Shepherdsville, Ky., donated a a normal kidney to his ailing identical twin brother, Leon, was performed today at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Hospital authorities said a report would be given 72 hours after the operation—the time covering the most difficult postoperative period.

In the transplant, Leon received the good kidney to replace two diseased kidneys which eventually will be removed in separate operations.

Several similar operations on identical twins have been performed successfully at the hospital.

Dixie Senators Protest Short-Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern senators protesting what they called "a legislative lynching bee" fought today against a parliamentary short-cut in handling the House-passed civil rights bill.

But Republican leader Knowland of California predicted the Senate would back him in a move to bypass the Senate Judiciary Committee, where a companion measure has languished for months, and vote to put the House bill directly on the calendar.

If this maneuver succeeds, the legislation will be in a position where any senator can move at any time to call it up for a vote.

Knowland plans to employ a seldom-used Senate rule under which he contends a House-passed bill can be placed on the Senate's legislative calendar without being referred to committee.

But Sen. Russell (D-Ga), leader of the Southern opposition, maintains that under the Congressional Reorganization Act all House bills must be sent to committee before being brought up for action in the Senate.

RUSSELL and other Southern senators have protested that, if successful, the bypass move would mark the start of a "legislative lynching bee."

Knowland said he didn't know whether Vice President Nixon, the Senate's presiding officer, would make a ruling on the issue or simply put it before the Senate for decision. In any event, any ruling by Nixon can be appealed to the Senate itself.

While Knowland said he saw no reason why the issue could not be disposed of during the day, Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said in a separate interview "it's anybody's guess" how long the matter will take.

Russell made no prediction when a showdown would come. "I just don't know what is going to happen," he said.

What Court Said

Per Curiam. The case has been submitted on the petition, the answer and the demurrer to the answer and presents the question: Where a board of education under authority of an election legally passes a resolution to issue bonds for a local school district, does the selection of a citizens committee under authority of Section 3311.30, Revised Code, between the date of the election authorizing the issuance of bonds and the date of the board's resolution to issue the bonds, take from the board its authority to issue the bonds? It is respondent's contention that no board of education may take any action which will, in any way, confuse or destroy a general plan which might be submitted by a citizens committee proceeding under Section 3311.31, Revised Code.

An examination of that section discloses that the powers of a citizens committee are limited to the making of a report recommending the continuance of an existing school system or a plan of reorganization. The function of the committee is recommendatory and advisory only. Its duty is limited to making a report, and it is without power to carry its recommendations into effect. The authority to carry into effect any recommendation which might be made by the committee is, by the statute, placed in the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the county board of education and, finally, the electors of the district involved.

There is nothing to indicate that, in enacting Sections 3311.30 and 3311.31, Revised Code, the General Assembly intended to hold in abeyance the authority of a board of education to issue bonds to carry out an educational program pending the possible recommendation of a citizens committee, whose only power is to recommend and advise, or to limit the power of a board of education to issue bonds under the provisions of the Uniform Bond Act.

The respondent, by her answer, does not plead a legal defense to the petition. The demurrer to the answer is sustained.

Girard Case Appealed to Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department today appealed to the Supreme Court from a decision barring the government from surrendering GI William S. Girard to the Japanese for trial.

A petition to the nation's highest court said the decision by U. S. Dist. Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy was "clearly wrong."

The petition said the "public interest in an early disposition of the case" is so great that the high tribunal should act at the earliest convenient date.

The petition was signed by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell and Solicitor J. Lee Rankin.

The decision to go directly to the Supreme Court came after lengthy conferences between Justice and Defense Department officials over the government's next step in the case of the soldier accused of killing a Japanese woman.

The Supreme Court has planned to adjourn for the summer next Monday, and Justice Douglas already has left Washington.

By implication, there was a request in the petition for the high court to handle the case before taking its recess.

Meanwhile, the Japanese are going ahead with plans to try the 21-year-old Army specialist third class on the equivalent of a manslaughter charge for the firing range death last January of Mrs. Naka Sakai.

Miami Trace Case

THE MIAMI TRACE board took its case to the Supreme Court April 15, posing this question:

Where a board of education, under authority of an election, has legally proceeded to pass a resolution to issue bonds of a local school district, does the appointment of a Citizens Committee between the date of the election and the date of the resolution to issue the bonds take away from the board of education its authority to issue them?

The petition asked that Mrs. Thompson be compelled to advertise and sell the bonds through a writ of mandamus.

The clerk, in her answer, declared that because a lower court decision in a taxpayers suit last February resulted in creation of a Citizens Committee, the board of education is without power to issue its bonds, and that as long as the Citizens Committee continues to function, the power and authority of the board to do anything which might nullify or otherwise affect a report, plan of organization or recommendations of the Citizens Committee is suspended.

THE MIAMI TRACE board demurred—or, in laymen's language, objected—to this defense, holding that the appointment of a Citizens Committee did not take away its authority and that there was no sound reason for holding the board's authority in abeyance pending action of a body whose only power, according to the Miami Trace brief, was to recommend.

Arguments were submitted to the high court on May 22.

The court also had given the Washington C. H. Board of Education and a group of six taxpayers who own real estate in Miami Trace district permission to file briefs as friends of the court. The city board's brief agreed with the position taken by the clerk of the Miami Trace board, holding that board powers had been suspended by the existence of a Citizens Committee, although asking to be included in a court decision.

THE TAXPAYERS' brief brought forth "facts and law necessary to a correct and just determination of the legal principles actually involved", and generally opposed the Miami Trace board's stand.

The Miami Trace bond issue, which provides for the purchase of land and the construction and equipping of a new high school at Eber, as well as improvement of existing buildings, was approved last November by a 57 per cent vote.

At the same time a city school district bond issue to raise $645,000 for providing needed grade school facilities, passed by slightly more than 60 per cent.

Probe Shifts To Loan Quiz

Baker Union Chief Slated To Return

WASHINGTON (AP) — James G. Cross, a former "pan greaser and fruit cook" who rose to be president of the Bakery Workers Union, was scheduled to return before the Senate Rackets Committee today for further questioning about alleged misconduct in office.

Awaiting Cross were questions about assertions that he okayed below-standard wages contracts for Zion Industries, Inc., Zion, Ill., while the brothers Herbert and Martin Philipsborn Sr., who are financially interested in the big baking and candy company, were loaning him about $100,000. Cross said he wants to tell about that and bring the loan issue into "focus."

In Chicago, Martin Philipsborn Jr. said his father made "substantial" loans to Cross, but that he did not know the amount. The younger Philipsborn said the loans had nothing to do with contract negotiations between the union and the firm.

The Elder Philipsborn's lawyer Harry N. Wyatt said the loans totaled about $96,000-$56,000 in 1955, and about $40,000 in 1956. The lawyer added that both loans were repaid in about three months.

FOR MORE than three hours Wednesday Cross was questioned about his expense accounts to the Union. Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said they totaled more than $39,000 in 1956, and that they included $15,000 to $20,000 for entertainment without supporting documents to show the money actually had been spent. Cross insisted the accounts were accurate.

Cross was quizzed sharply about his relations with Mrs. Kay Lower, a convicted Los Angeles prostitute whom he said he employed as an undercover organizer for the Bakers Union.

He refused to say whether he had any "personal dealings" with Mrs. Lower, contending the committee had no authority to ask such questions.

Twin Gives Kidney for Ailing Brother

BOSTON (AP) —A kidney transplant operation, in which Leonard Masden, 19, of Shepherdsville, Ky., donated a a normal kidney to his ailing identical twin brother, Leon, was performed today at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Hospital authorities said a report would be given 72 hours after the operation—the time covering the most difficult postoperative period.

In the transplant, Leon received the good kidney to replace two diseased kidneys which eventually will be removed in separate operations.

Several similar operations on identical twins have been performed successfully at the hospital.

Dixie Senators Protest Short-Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern senators protesting what they called "a legislative lynching bee" fought today against a parliamentary short-cut in handling the House-passed civil rights bill.

But Republican leader Knowland of California predicted the Senate would back him in a move to bypass the Senate Judiciary Committee, where a companion measure has languished for months, and vote to put the House bill directly on the calendar.

If this maneuver succeeds, the legislation will be in a position where any senator can move at any time to call it up for a vote.

Knowland plans to employ a seldom-used Senate rule under which he contends a House-passed bill can be placed on the Senate's legislative calendar without being referred to committee.

But Sen. Russell (D-Ga), leader of the Southern opposition, maintains that under the Congressional Reorganization Act all House bills must be sent to committee before being brought up for action in the Senate.

RUSSELL and other Southern senators have protested that, if successful, the bypass move would mark the start of a "legislative lynching bee."

Knowland said he didn't know whether Vice President Nixon, the Senate's presiding officer, would make a ruling on the issue or simply put it before the Senate for decision. In any event, any ruling by Nixon can be appealed to the Senate itself.

While Knowland said he saw no reason why the issue could not be disposed of during the day, Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said in a separate interview "it's anybody's guess" how long the matter will take.

Russell made no prediction when a showdown would come. "I just don't know what is going to happen," he said.

What Court Said

Per Curiam. The case has been submitted on the petition, the answer and the demurrer to the answer and presents the question: Where a board of education under authority of an election legally passes a resolution to issue bonds for a local school district, does the selection of a citizens committee under authority of Section 3311.30, Revised Code, between the date of the election authorizing the issuance of bonds and the date of the board's resolution to issue the bonds, take from the board its authority to issue the bonds? It is respondent's contention that no board of education may take any action which will, in any way, confuse or destroy a general plan which might be submitted by a citizens committee proceeding under Section 3311.31, Revised Code.

An examination of that section discloses that the powers of a citizens committee are limited to the making of a report recommending the continuance of an existing school system or a plan of reorganization. The function of the committee is recommendatory and advisory only. Its duty is limited to making a report, and it is without power to carry its recommendations into effect. The authority to carry into effect any recommendation which might be made by the committee is, by the statute, placed in the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the county board of education and, finally, the electors of the district involved.

There is nothing to indicate that, in enacting Sections 3311.30 and 3311.31, Revised Code, the General Assembly intended to hold in abeyance the authority of a board of education to issue bonds to carry out an educational program pending the possible recommendation of a citizens committee, whose only power is to recommend and advise, or to limit the power of a board of education to issue bonds under the provisions of the Uniform Bond Act.

The respondent, by her answer, does not plead a legal defense to the petition. The demurrer to the answer is sustained.

Girard Case Appealed to Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department today appealed to the Supreme Court from a decision barring the government from surrendering GI William S. Girard to the Japanese for trial.

A petition to the nation's highest court said the decision by U. S. Dist. Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy was "clearly wrong."

The petition said the "public interest in an early disposition of the case" is so great that the high tribunal should act at the earliest convenient date.

The petition was signed by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell and Solicitor J. Lee Rankin.

The decision to go directly to the Supreme Court came after lengthy conferences between Justice and Defense Department officials over the government's next step in the case of the soldier accused of killing a Japanese woman.

The Supreme Court has planned to adjourn for the summer next Monday, and Justice Douglas already has left Washington.

By implication, there was a request in the petition for the high court to handle the case before taking its recess.

Meanwhile, the Japanese are going ahead with plans to try the 21-year-old Army specialist third class on the equivalent of a manslaughter charge for the firing range death last January of Mrs. Naka Sakai.

The Abuse of Constitutional Liberty

Following the tactics, and in the footsteps of his father, in an appearance recently before the U. S. Senate's racket committee, young Dave Beck, Jr., hid behind the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution 120 times in a 38 minute appearance.

It is no wonder that Senator McClellan of Arkansas declared in effect that if the Becks can get by with this sort of thing so can every suspicious character in the nation. He added, "America faces a great danger. Action such as this can mean a breakdown of law enforcement all over the country."

It is conceivable that such a thing can happen if every one who is being questioned by officials or authorities should sneeringly invoke the Fifth Amendment.

It is well enough to argue that this amendment was originally set up as one of the great guarantees of personal freedom. However, like a lot of other freedoms, including the press, the TV and the radio, it is a privilege provided that must be guarded, never abused.

Although Senator McClellan saw to it that the record of young Beck's appearance was certified to the Department of Justice for possible contempt action, the actual contempt shown by Beck, his father, and others in the past in refusing to answer has become something far more serious than a mere question and answer matter before a body which is seeking the truth in criminal charges. It may be spectacular but it sets a bad example before the whole country.

It will be a matter of shame in this country if continuation of this kind of thing should mark a seeming ridicule and studied disregard of our national Constitution. It could well be added that there have been at times some peculiar court decisions reported, affecting interpretations of that great document which seem so farfetched, even to the layman, that we sometimes wonder if they are not about as bad as refusing to answer questions before a Senate committee.

Some of these times, we hope soon, the swing of the national pendulum may bring about a greater reverence for the Constitution which has been such an outstanding document that it has helped to make America great. It has stood the test of time to become a monument to its creators.

No one wants to see this almost sacred landmark of human liberty misued or become a mere tool for treacherous trickery.

Students Value Knowledge

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—"It seems to me that a dangerous philosophy has grown up that the world owes us a living," said Dr. John R. Bertrand, who at 42 heads one of America's most unusual educational institutions.

"We try to teach our students that it is up to a man to create his own opporunity — and that hardship need not in itself be regarded as a cause for unhappiness."

Dr. Bertrand, who last year became president of the famed Berry schools and college near Rome, Ga., is an unusual educator himself.

After graduating from high school, he ran his father's Texas wheat farm for five years to save enough to start college. In the second world war he served 19 months as a submarine combat officer in the southwest Pacific. Most of his fighting time he spent aboard the U.S.S. Bowfin, which torpedoed nearly 200,000 tons of Japanese shipping.

A tall, spare, dark-eyed man, Dr. Bertrand says:

"Many college students in the United States today are spoiled. Things have been too easy for them."

They aren't at the Berry school, founded in 1902 to give an education to boys and girls of the Southern Highlands who could get one no other way.

The schools now have 1,000 students and a 30,000-acre campus, the largest in the nation.

No student is allowed to have a car. There is no football. The students wear uniforms to avoid social distinctions.

Every student — boy or girl — studies four days a week, spends two days at work to earn his room and boards. Some 60 per cent also work at the school during the summer to earn their tuition for the following year. All students attend religious services every Sunday.

The schools operate their own dairy farm, grow their own produce, market timber from their forest. Students have constructed many of the 100 buildings on the campus. Even turning out the bricks themselves.

"The students also provide most of their own entertainment," said Dr. Bertrand. "We stress these things—the dignity of work, Christian living, and the importance of beauty in daily life."

This concept might sound a little stuffy to many a student who regards college as a long lark at parental expense. But some 16,000 students over the last century have proved the worth of the Berry formula.

The schools have turned out hundreds of teachers, ministers, farm experts, industrial technicians. Several graduates have become legislators and lawyers. One is a college president, another a magazine editor, a third vice president of a major Manhattan bank.

Dr. Bertrand, who resigned as dean of the University of Nevada's College of Agriculture, to take up his present post, says one of the pleasantest things about it is that he rarely has a disciplinary problem.

"A student who is getting his education by the sweat of his own brow knows the value of it. He isn't in a hurry to get into trouble."

Prof. Sommerville's Testimony

By George Sokolsky

John Somerville, PH.D., has had an astonishing career as a Soviet specialist in the United States.

The Cutting and Rockefeller foundations and Columbia and Stanford universities granted him fellowships (which is the scholar's term for a subsidy) to study in Soviet Russia with the object of learning about the inner workings of the Communist system right there in the heart of things.

He spent two years in Soviet Russia and one year in the Hoover Library learning about revolutions. He has written considerable on the subject, both books and articles, and teaches at Hunter College in New York which is a tax-supported institution.

In recent years Dr. John Somerville has been appearing in Smith Act cases to testify as an expert on the nature of the Communist conspiracy which he, of course, denies is a conspiracy.

His general philosophy on the subject and the basis of his testimony has appeared in a book entitled "The Communist Trials and the American Tradition."

The object of the book is to prove that the Communists do not believe that it is their function to overthrow any government by force and violence, but what they actually do believe is that the majority should rule, a concept that Marx and Engels got from John Locke and Thomas Jefferson.

As this runs counter to 40 years of history and experience, as it violates what just has been seen in Hungary and Poland, as it is opposed to the entire doctrine of the dictatorship of the proletariat by means of the Communist party through its central agency either called the Politburo or the Presidium, it cannot be correct. What one encounters her is a prolong explanation which does not stand up even under Lenin's statement of the party's attitude:

"In order to win the majority of the population to its side, the proletariat must first of all overthrow the bourgeoisie and seize state power and, secondly, it must introduce Soviet rule, smash to pieces the old state apparatus and thus at one blow undermine the rule, authority and influence of the bourgeoisie and of the petty-bourgeois compromisers in the ranks of the non-proletarian toiling masses. Thirdly, the proletariat must completely and finally destroy the influence of the bourgeoisie and of the pretty-bourgeois compromisers among the majority of the non-proletarian toiling masses by the revolutionary satisfaction of their economic needs at the expense of the exploiters."

Lenin's statement is more accurately descriptive of the revolution wherever it has taken place. In 1917-18, I lived through the early revolutionary days when Lenin and Trotzky ruled the Russian people. There was no majority vote.

I was present, as a reporter, at the Constituent Assembly at which the Bolsheviks represented a tiny fraction, but they had the support of sailors and soldiers with guns and they closed down the Constituent Assembly which might have been representative of a greater percentage of the Russian people than the communist party undr Khrushchev represents today.

In China, there never was a people's revolution or a people's democracy or a majority or a minority. The Chinese Communists were able to seize power because Soviet Russia gave them supplies of the Japanese Kuantung Army in Manchuria whereas the United States, under the aegis of Gen. George Marshall, deprived the Nationalists of their position and fighting power.

The role played by Gen Marshall aroused controversy which will not be settled in this generation; but that the Chinese Communist party from 1921 to 1949 devoted itself to overthrowing the existing government of China by force and violence, by intrigue and conspiracy, is historic fact that can be sustained day by day by the course of events.

This was no majority deciding that it preferred Mao Tze Tung to Chiang Kai-Shek or vice versa. No one asked the majority or even a sizeable minority of the Chinese people what they wanted.

Khrushchev in his CBS telecast defended the murderous role of the Communists in Hungary and said that the Kadar regime rested on themajority of the Hungarian people.

This, of course, is a cynical lie and no book by a Hunter College professor can make it anything else or bring back to life those who sacrificed themselves on the altar of liberty.

How To Make Certain You Get Enough Milk

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

You can drink your milk and eat it, too! every day.

For years all of you have been bombarded with advice about the value of milk. By this time I'm sure you are aware that adults should have at least one pint a day, expectant mothers require two pints, nursing mothers need three pints and children should have a minimum of one and one half to two pints per day.

While no single food supplies all the nutrients we need, milk comes closer than any other.

Many Elements

It gives us calcium for strong bodies and numerous vitamins, minerals and proteins which we need contantly to replenish dwindling supplies.

There are dozens of ways of getting this daily milk quota.

Drinking several glassfuls, of course, is the easiest and surest way. But not everyone is that fond of milk. Also you may not always find the opportunity to drink milk.

Various Ways

Therefore, some of you have to consume your milk in a different manner—in cooked foods, on cereals, ice cream, pudding and the like.

But even so, how many of you actually get your milk requirements day in and day out? I do, and let me tell you how.

You see, I get an extra milk bonus every morning.

Like just about everyone else, I pour milk over my oatmeal—and I have oatmea. for every breakfast, winter and summer. In addition, I sprinkle a tablespoonful of powdered milk on top of the oatmeal.Or I shake the same amount of powdered milk into my orange juice.

Retains Milk Values

This powdered milk actually is the "heart of the milk." It retains most of the original milk values like calcium, thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, protein, lactose and minerals. The single spoonful provides about a 15 per cent bonus of these important ingredients.

The only thing lacking is the fat content and vitamin A. I make up the vitamin A with other foods. As for the fat, most of us in the middle and upper age bracket can do without it.a

The older you get, the less fat you need. But sufficient milk is important every day of your life.

The Nation Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The main point in the Supreme Court's history-making decisions on civil liberties has been the widening of protection for individuals against intrusion by the government: federal, state or local.

The court has been pretty consistent in guarding the right of an individual to refuse to answer congressional committee questions by invoking the Fifth Amendment, which says a man can't be compelled to tell anything self-incriminating.

For example: Last year it ruled the City of New York was wrong in firing a professor in one of its colleges for using the Fifth Amendment before a congressional committee.

True, the court said, he had no constitutional right to the job. But he did have a constitutional right to use the Fifth Amendment when he was questioned about past membership in the Communist party.

The court said: "The privilege against self-incrimination would be reduced to a hollow mockery if its exercises could be taken as equivalent either to a confession of guilt or a conclusive presumption of perjury.

"The amendment serves to protect the innocent who might otherwise be ensnared by ambiguous circumstances."

But this week the court went far beyond that by ruling in favor of two men who had been convicted of contempt when, without invoking the protection of any amendment at all, they refused to answer questions.

The men argued the answers would not serve any public purpose and that the questions themselves were simply an intrusion into private beliefs.

One was John T. Watkins, a labor organizer, who balked at questions by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. The other was Paul M. Sweezy, lecturer and author, who would not answer questions by New Hampshire's attorney general.

Watkins had been identified by two witnesses as a Communist they said they had known. He denied he ever was a Communist although he admitted he had worked with Communists but had broken with them.

Then the committee asked him about people he knew in his prebreak days. He said he would answer all questions about himself and about people he honestly thought were still Communists. But he refused to talk about people he thought were no longer members of the party.

The majority opinion of the Supreme Court said in effect that when a congressional committee asks questions they must have a purpose connected with the business of Congress and, therefore, the public welfare.

Chief Justice Warren said this in the majority opinion:

Investigations conducted solely for the aggrandizement of the investigators or to 'punish' those investigated are indefensible.... There is no congressional power to expose for the sake of exposure.

"The public is, of course, entitled to be informed concerning the workings of its government. That cannot be inflated into a general power to expose where the predominant result can only be an invasion of the rights of individuals."

In this way, the court told congressional committees to ask pertinent questions if they want answers. This may not change committee tactics, but it may decrease their zeal for citing for contempt witnesses who balk at nonpertinent questions.

Sweezy had been questioned by the New Hampshire attorney general about alleged subversive activities. Sweezy said he not only wasn't subversive but didn't know any subversives.

He was asked about lectures he had given at the state university, about his interest in the Progressive party, and about his political views and associations. He declined to answer those questions.

Sweezy reasoned those questions were an unwarranted intrusion into his private life and could serve no public good since the attorney general was investigating subversion and he wasn't subversive.

The Supreme Court backed up Sweezy, with reasoning pretty much the same as in Watkins' case. The court said the attorney general had no right to dig into Sweezy's private life with questions which served no public purpose.

Judge Urges Better Traffic Case Handling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If traffic courts handled cases with more care, the traffic problem would not be as acute as it is, says Chief Justice Cal V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court. Addressing the fourth annual All-Ohio Traffic Court Conference at Ohio State University, Judge Weygandt said he believes too many judges suspend sentences in traffic cases but fail to suspend enough drivers' licenses in the more serious offenses.

The men argued the answers would not serve any public purpose and that the questions themselves were simply an intrusion into private beliefs.

One was John T. Watkins, a labor organizer, who balked at questions by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. The other was Paul M. Sweezy, lecturer and author, who would not answer questions by New Hampshire's attorney general.

Watkins had been identified by two witnesses as a Communist they said they had known. He denied he ever was a Communist although he admitted he had worked with Communists but had broken with them.

Then the committee asked him about people he knew in his prebreak days. He said he would answer all questions about himself and about people he honestly thought were still Communists. But he refused to talk about people he thought were no longer members of the party.

The majority opinion of the Supreme Court said in effect that when a congressional committee asks questions they must have a purpose connected with the business of Congress and, therefore, the public welfare.

Chief Justice Warren said this in the majority opinion:

Investigations conducted solely for the aggrandizement of the investigators or to 'punish' those investigated are indefensible.... There is no congressional power to expose for the sake of exposure.

"The public is, of course, entitled to be informed concerning the workings of its government. That cannot be inflated into a general power to expose where the predominant result can only be an invasion of the rights of individuals."

In this way, the court told congressional committees to ask pertinent questions if they want answers. This may not change committee tactics, but it may decrease their zeal for citing for contempt witnesses who balk at nonpertinent questions.

Sweezy had been questioned by the New Hampshire attorney general about alleged subversive activities. Sweezy said he not only wasn't subversive but didn't know any subversives.

He was asked about lectures he had given at the state university, about his interest in the Progressive party, and about his political views and associations. He declined to answer those questions.

Sweezy reasoned those questions were an unwarranted intrusion into his private life and could serve no public good since the attorney general was investigating subversion and he wasn't subversive.

The Supreme Court backed up Sweezy, with reasoning pretty much the same as in Watkins' case. The court said the attorney general had no right to dig into Sweezy's private life with questions which served no public purpose.

Judge Urges Better Traffic Case Handling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If traffic courts handled cases with more care, the traffic problem would not be as acute as it is, says Chief Justice Cal V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court. Addressing the fourth annual All-Ohio Traffic Court Conference at Ohio State University, Judge Weygandt said he believes too many judges suspend sentences in traffic cases but fail to suspend enough drivers' licenses in the more serious offenses.

How To Make Certain You Get Enough Milk

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

You can drink your milk and eat it, too! every day.

For years all of you have been bombarded with advice about the value of milk. By this time I'm sure you are aware that adults should have at least one pint a day, expectant mothers require two pints, nursing mothers need three pints and children should have a minimum of one and one half to two pints per day.

While no single food supplies all the nutrients we need, milk comes closer than any other.

Many Elements

It gives us calcium for strong bodies and numerous vitamins, minerals and proteins which we need contantly to replenish dwindling supplies.

There are dozens of ways of getting this daily milk quota.

Drinking several glassfuls, of course, is the easiest and surest way. But not everyone is that fond of milk. Also you may not always find the opportunity to drink milk.

Various Ways

Therefore, some of you have to consume your milk in a different manner—in cooked foods, on cereals, ice cream, pudding and the like.

But even so, how many of you actually get your milk requirements day in and day out? I do, and let me tell you how.

You see, I get an extra milk bonus every morning.

Like just about everyone else, I pour milk over my oatmeal—and I have oatmea. for every breakfast, winter and summer. In addition, I sprinkle a tablespoonful of powdered milk on top of the oatmeal.Or I shake the same amount of powdered milk into my orange juice.

Retains Milk Values

This powdered milk actually is the "heart of the milk." It retains most of the original milk values like calcium, thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, protein, lactose and minerals. The single spoonful provides about a 15 per cent bonus of these important ingredients.

The only thing lacking is the fat content and vitamin A. I make up the vitamin A with other foods. As for the fat, most of us in the middle and upper age bracket can do without it.a

The older you get, the less fat you need. But sufficient milk is important every day of your life.

Students Value Knowledge

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—"It seems to me that a dangerous philosophy has grown up that the world owes us a living," said Dr. John R. Bertrand, who at 42 heads one of America's most unusual educational institutions.

"We try to teach our students that it is up to a man to create his own opporunity — and that hardship need not in itself be regarded as a cause for unhappiness."

Dr. Bertrand, who last year became president of the famed Berry schools and college near Rome, Ga., is an unusual educator himself.

After graduating from high school, he ran his father's Texas wheat farm for five years to save enough to start college. In the second world war he served 19 months as a submarine combat officer in the southwest Pacific. Most of his fighting time he spent aboard the U.S.S. Bowfin, which torpedoed nearly 200,000 tons of Japanese shipping.

A tall, spare, dark-eyed man, Dr. Bertrand says:

"Many college students in the United States today are spoiled. Things have been too easy for them."

They aren't at the Berry school, founded in 1902 to give an education to boys and girls of the Southern Highlands who could get one no other way.

The schools now have 1,000 students and a 30,000-acre campus, the largest in the nation.

No student is allowed to have a car. There is no football. The students wear uniforms to avoid social distinctions.

Every student — boy or girl — studies four days a week, spends two days at work to earn his room and boards. Some 60 per cent also work at the school during the summer to earn their tuition for the following year. All students attend religious services every Sunday.

The schools operate their own dairy farm, grow their own produce, market timber from their forest. Students have constructed many of the 100 buildings on the campus. Even turning out the bricks themselves.

"The students also provide most of their own entertainment," said Dr. Bertrand. "We stress these things—the dignity of work, Christian living, and the importance of beauty in daily life."

This concept might sound a little stuffy to many a student who regards college as a long lark at parental expense. But some 16,000 students over the last century have proved the worth of the Berry formula.

The schools have turned out hundreds of teachers, ministers, farm experts, industrial technicians. Several graduates have become legislators and lawyers. One is a college president, another a magazine editor, a third vice president of a major Manhattan bank.

Dr. Bertrand, who resigned as dean of the University of Nevada's College of Agriculture, to take up his present post, says one of the pleasantest things about it is that he rarely has a disciplinary problem.

"A student who is getting his education by the sweat of his own brow knows the value of it. He isn't in a hurry to get into trouble."

Prof. Sommerville's Testimony

By George Sokolsky

John Somerville, PH.D., has had an astonishing career as a Soviet specialist in the United States.

The Cutting and Rockefeller foundations and Columbia and Stanford universities granted him fellowships (which is the scholar's term for a subsidy) to study in Soviet Russia with the object of learning about the inner workings of the Communist system right there in the heart of things.

He spent two years in Soviet Russia and one year in the Hoover Library learning about revolutions. He has written considerable on the subject, both books and articles, and teaches at Hunter College in New York which is a tax-supported institution.

In recent years Dr. John Somerville has been appearing in Smith Act cases to testify as an expert on the nature of the Communist conspiracy which he, of course, denies is a conspiracy.

His general philosophy on the subject and the basis of his testimony has appeared in a book entitled "The Communist Trials and the American Tradition."

The object of the book is to prove that the Communists do not believe that it is their function to overthrow any government by force and violence, but what they actually do believe is that the majority should rule, a concept that Marx and Engels got from John Locke and Thomas Jefferson.

As this runs counter to 40 years of history and experience, as it violates what just has been seen in Hungary and Poland, as it is opposed to the entire doctrine of the dictatorship of the proletariat by means of the Communist party through its central agency either called the Politburo or the Presidium, it cannot be correct. What one encounters her is a prolong explanation which does not stand up even under Lenin's statement of the party's attitude:

"In order to win the majority of the population to its side, the proletariat must first of all overthrow the bourgeoisie and seize state power and, secondly, it must introduce Soviet rule, smash to pieces the old state apparatus and thus at one blow undermine the rule, authority and influence of the bourgeoisie and of the petty-bourgeois compromisers in the ranks of the non-proletarian toiling masses. Thirdly, the proletariat must completely and finally destroy the influence of the bourgeoisie and of the pretty-bourgeois compromisers among the majority of the non-proletarian toiling masses by the revolutionary satisfaction of their economic needs at the expense of the exploiters."

Lenin's statement is more accurately descriptive of the revolution wherever it has taken place. In 1917-18, I lived through the early revolutionary days when Lenin and Trotzky ruled the Russian people. There was no majority vote.

I was present, as a reporter, at the Constituent Assembly at which the Bolsheviks represented a tiny fraction, but they had the support of sailors and soldiers with guns and they closed down the Constituent Assembly which might have been representative of a greater percentage of the Russian people than the communist party undr Khrushchev represents today.

In China, there never was a people's revolution or a people's democracy or a majority or a minority. The Chinese Communists were able to seize power because Soviet Russia gave them supplies of the Japanese Kuantung Army in Manchuria whereas the United States, under the aegis of Gen. George Marshall, deprived the Nationalists of their position and fighting power.

The role played by Gen Marshall aroused controversy which will not be settled in this generation; but that the Chinese Communist party from 1921 to 1949 devoted itself to overthrowing the existing government of China by force and violence, by intrigue and conspiracy, is historic fact that can be sustained day by day by the course of events.

This was no majority deciding that it preferred Mao Tze Tung to Chiang Kai-Shek or vice versa. No one asked the majority or even a sizeable minority of the Chinese people what they wanted.

Khrushchev in his CBS telecast defended the murderous role of the Communists in Hungary and said that the Kadar regime rested on themajority of the Hungarian people.

This, of course, is a cynical lie and no book by a Hunter College professor can make it anything else or bring back to life those who sacrificed themselves on the altar of liberty.

Juvenile Delinquency

Cleaner Look, Improved Program Helps Ohio Girls' Industrial School

By DUKE YATES
Third of 4-part series

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"We are a dumping ground for the state's unwanted children."

With that statement, Malvin B. McLane Jr., the young, idealistic superintendent of the Girls' Industrial School (GIS) near Delaware sums up his attitude and that of many others in the Ohio Juvenile Division toward the system that brings children to the Boys' and Girls' Industria Schools.

Many juvenile judges might quarrel with this interpretation of procedure. The rule book says a child is sent to the industrial schools because, in the opinion of the committing juvenile judge, that is what is best for the child.

But the fact remains that almost all children at the two schools are those whom their communities have failed to discipline. They are the "hard core" delinquents—the ones with long juvenile court records.

A total of 731 such girls entered GIS in the 12 months ended April 30, the latest figure available. Of this number 98 were returned as parole violators.

Ohio law is quite explicit about what should be done with these "unwanted children." It states that both the GIS and Boys' Industrial School "shall be maintained for the industrial, intellectual and moral training of those admitted to its care. . . ."

The dedicated little band of men and women entrusted with carrying out these instructions have another name for it—rehabilitation.

At GIS, under the guidance of McLane, substantial progress has been made toward the State's goal of a treatment program, rather than mere custody, of juvenile delinquents.

McLane — "Mr. Mac" to the girls—came to Ohio about a year ago from Virginia where he headed a boys' industrial school.

When he took over GIS it was gradually sinking into a morass of physical decay and programmed hopelessness. Buildings were in an almost unbelievable state of disrepair. And as for the school's program, McLane says, "We had a program of don'ts."

GIS, with its vintage-1890 brick buildings, is still not a beauty spot, though situated in one of the loveliest places in Ohio. But today one doesn't see trash heaps outside the back doors of cottages, paint no longer peels in great, ugly patches from the wooden trim of buildings, and gone are the steel cage windows that turned the delapidated structures into fire traps.

The school is located on a 189-acre tract along the Scioto River southwest of Delaware. There are about 25 buildings including 13 cottages for girls, a 12-bed hospital which is being renovated, a school building, vocational training building, gymnasium, bakery, laundry and administration building.

Only 11 of the cottages are in use. Two other cottages, closed last summer because of a staff shortage, have been renovated and will reopen soon.

The cottages are designed for 25 to 38 girls in single rooms. Some doubling has been necessary because of the closed cottages. There are 330 girls in 28 rooms.

Each cottage has its own kitchen and dining room and a recreation room. The sleeping rooms contain a bed, chest of drawers and a mirror. They are quite small and when two girls occupy the same room, there is barely enough room for two persons to stand.

Improvements in the physical plant are going on constantly as McLane tries to catch up on the long-neglected maintenance.

But the most important change is in the program. Perhaps the most significant gauge of its success is the fact that runaways from the school have dropped from 20-30 a month at the time McLane took over a year ago to less than five a month.

Girls not attending school once were given permanent maintenance jobs in the laundry, kitchen or other areas. Any vocational training they received was strictly "on the job" and incidental to the main task of keeping the school supplied with various necessities.

In February, the program was overhauled and 12 planned vocational courses set up that include training in sewing, food preparation, baking, clothes design and nurses aid training.

Some of the courses are still used to help supply the school but the emphasis is on helping the girls.

Other improvements in the overall program include liberalization of visiting hours, expansion of the recreation program and revision of the disciplinary system to fit punishment to the offense.

Discipline once involved meting out a prescribed punishment for a given offense. The most common form of punishment was to lock a girl in her room after supper.

Now, punishment is prescribed by an adjustment committee which is likely to deny the culprit the right to attend one of the weekly movies of coed dances.

To the outsider this might seem like coddling but in the drab lives of these girls such deprivations are a real hardship.

The girls' evenings are usually free for a large range of planned recreation activities which include a variety of sports hobby and craft work under the sponsorship of volunteer workers from Ohio Wesleyan University art, drama and music classes. This summer, a Girl Scout troup will be organized. There are also 15 coed dances during the year attended by students from Ohio Wesleyan.

This much-improved program faces stagnation. To improve it further would require a substantial increase in the professional staff — already below minimum standards in number.

There are only one psychologist, three social workers, 11 academic teachers and two vocational instructors at the school.

This year the State Legislature, in the Juvenile Division's budget for the coming two years, provided funds to employ 18 cottage parents for the reopened cottages and four cooks for a planned central kitchen—but nothing for additional professional personnel.

Thus GIS finds itself with a wonderful start and no place to go. Having established a rehabilitative program the overworked staff cannot be expected to improve its quality so long as the ratio of girls to social workers is more than 100 to 1.

These maladjusted girls at GIS need attention and supervision—much more than they are getting.

"Remember," says McLane, "these girls don't stay here forever. They go back into their communities. Whether or not they come back here, wind up in Marysville (Womens' Reformatory) or become useful citizens depends upon what we here and the community afterwards can do to help straighten them out."

Ohio Senators Split On Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio senators Frank J. Lausche, Democrat, and John W. Bricker, Republican, were divided Tuesday in voting on a treaty to approve United States membership in the International Atomic Energy Agency. The treaty, ratified 67 19, was supported by Lausche and opposed by Bricker.

An amendment by Bricker to prohibit the President from releasing fissionable materials to the agency without prior congressional consent was defeated 53-31. Bricker voted for it, Lausche against it.

Thus GIS finds itself with a wonderful start and no place to go. Having established a rehabilitative program he overworked staff cannot be expected to improve its quality so long as the ratio of girls to social workers is more than 100 to 1.

These maladjusted girls at GIS need attention and supervision—much more than they are getting.

"Remember," says McLane, "these girls don't stay here forever. They go back into their communities. Whether or not they come back here, wind up in Marysville (Womens' Reformatory) or become useful citizens depends upon what we here and the community afterwards can do to help straighten them out."

Wheel Chair Romance Leads Pair To Plan Trip to Altar

Both are paralyzed from the waist down.

Dr. Heavern, 24, was injured critically in a 1954 automobile accident at Covington, Ky. Janet, 21, is a polio victim.

They met two years ago at Bellevue Hospital's Institute for Physical Rehabilitation in New York. For four months, they rolled through Central Park in wheel chairs and took in Broadway musicals.

"We just kind of hit it off," Janet said.

"It will be a big wedding. That much I know. I've always dreamed of a big wedding. But the date? That will have to wait until Tom finishes his internship."

Dr. Heavern, who won a scholarship at the University of Louisville Medical School after recovering sufficiently from the car injuries to sit, will return to Covington next week and begin a year's internship.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A number of bills, including the perennial one to lower the voting age, come up for consideration today as "senators" and "representatives" of Buckeye Girls' State get down to the serious business of lawmaking.

Girls' State is holding its 11th annual sessions at Capital University here.

The 720 girl staters Wednesday night attended a banquet where six top "administrative officials" were inaugurated by Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court.

After today's legislative sessions, the girls will be taken on bus tours to various government buildings in Columbus.

The legislative sessions end Saturday.

LINCOLN, R. I. (AP)—State Police Trooper Robert X. Mathews says he heard a new excuse for speeding.

"I saw you and kept on going because I'm terrified by thunder and lightning storms and wanted to get inside fast," the motorist told him.

Mathews let him off with a warning.

Canton Farm Brothers Win Penalty Battle

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two Canton farmers won their fight in Federal Court against a $420 penalty payment to the government for planting more wheat than permitted under the Agricultural Adjustment Act. Federal Judge Paul Jones ruled Wednesday that the brothers, Albert and John Sukosd, did not benefit from the excess wheat. They contended the wheat was planted for their father, Sam, who was elderly and could not work.

'Fishybacking' Starts Revolution

The Carib Queen, world's first especially designed trailership.

By IRWIN M. TRESS
Central Press Assn.

MIAMI, Fla.— A unique transportation system known as "fishyback," the hauling of loaded truck trailers on ocean-going ships, is well on its way to revolutionizing a large part of the world's transportation industry.

Starting with one used trailer three years ago, TMT Trailer Ferry, Inc., now has 12 ships in its fleet.

Today trailer trucks are loading up in Dayton, O., with tires, in Philadelphia with tractor parts, in Richmond, Va., with canned applesauce. On a few days these and about 85 other trailers will roll onto a ship in the port of New York and be on their way to Europe. Eight days later they will roll off and each trailer will go its own way, delivering its load door-to-door without any extra handling.

ERIC RATH, founder and president of TMT, started this new idea in transportation on $500 cash and a million dollars in galvanized nerve. Rath, who has a lifetime of transportation experience, had watched the American merchant marine being strangled by the high cargo handling costs.

He figured that if trucks would roll aboard ship and then drive right off at their destination, cargo would be handled only twice instead of almost the dozen times in conventional shipping.

In 1953 he was ready to put his idea to work. He borrowed a trailer and leased space on a freighter going from Florida to Puerto Rico. This was the start of the roll-on, roll-off trailership industry that has zoomed from $500 to a $3 million-a-year industry.

LATER TIM add a wartime Liberty ship and three LSTs, which can handle about 50 loaded trailers each. This year TMT launched the Carib Queen, the world's largest and swiftest roll-on, roll-off trailer ship. The Queen is a three-deck, 475-foot vessel that can carry 92 loaded trailers, 97 automobiles and 500 tons of bulk cargo. The ship at present is under charter to the U.S. Army, which is using it to run between New York and St. Nazaire, France.

TMT is the only line which is operation, but other shipping 100 per cent a trailership companies have joined in to make the idea the biggest new thing in shipping. Pan Atlantic Steamship corporation is planning to construct seven self-propelled trailerships at a cost of $63 million. American Hawaiian Steamship, Alaska Steamship and Matson Navigation company all have plans for "fishyback" operation. Matson's ships would carry trailers from West Coast ports across the Pacific.

DOCKS and pier facilities are being changed to handle trailerships. Since the goods never leave the truck till delivered, warehouses are not needed and many small towns with limited port facilities now can handle the relatively simple trailership operation.

Cleveland, Jacksonville, Fla., San Francisco and Beaumont, Tex., have made changes in their port areas to accommodate truck ships.

The trailership idea not only cuts down on handling, but also does away with expensive crating, cuts down on pilferage, and is not as subject to delays due to waterfront strikes.

A disadvantage of trailershipping is the large amount of wasted space aboard ship. Rath's argument to this is that you can load and unload so much more quickly with his method that the money lost in wasted space is made up through the more trips a trailership can make.

Wallace TV Show Upholds McBride Idea

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—It's time Mary Margaret McBride had her own regular interview program on network TV. She demonstrated this when Mike Wallace interviewed her Sunday night (ABC-TV).

After 20 years on radio she has been reluctant to switch to TV under its ground rules. Before Wallace, TV interviewing was highly gimmicked.

For years Miss McBride has been saying she would like to do a straight interview program in which she and a subject simply talked face to face. "No!" cried the sharp young men of TV, in effect. "That's merely radio with a camera turned on it. That's not television." Then came Wallace with the same simple technique she has been advocating.

Miss McBride is a modest woman. Wallace tried on Sunday to fathom her modesty. He succeeded in revealing her absolute candor. She demonstrated that she speaks lucidly and interestingly to a mature audience. She has a depth of emotional feeling rarely communicated on TV. So she is able to say things many people would not accept from one of lesser emotional tone.

Bearing in mind Miss McBride's aversion to doing a regular TV program unless she feels it is exactly the format she desires, one could wish that an interview program in the intimate, close-up manner might be evolved for her.

If averse in the past to a regular television program, she should remember that it's a woman's privilege to change her mind.

Cincinnati Girl Gets Top Office

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Members of the Buckeye Girls' State, holding its 11th annual meeting at Capital University here, went to the polls Tuesday and elected Carole McCollum of Cincinnati "governor." Miss McCollum, a member of the Federalists, paced her party to four of the state's six top posts.

Federalists making the grade were Philomena Zurzola of Akron, lieutenant governor; Anna Mae Deitrich of Philo, secretary of state; and Janet Combs of Hamilton, attorney general.

Members of the opposition Nationalist Party elected to office were Carolyn Reidy of Columbus, treasurer; and Janet Blackwood of Yellow Springs, auditor.

Forgotten Switch

"Everything in the home today is run by switches, except the children."

London Air Study Discloses High Content of Benzpyrene

LONDON (AP)—Researchers hired by British tobacco companies say Londoners each day breathe as much of one cancer-causing substance — benzpyrene — as they would get from smoking 100 cigarettes.

Benzpyrene is one of the substances most frequently mentioned by scientists seeking to determine whether smoking is a major cause of lung cancer. It is found both in tobacco smoke and in air polluted by industrial by-products and heavy automotive traffic.

The experts working for the British tobacco firms said they took samples of London's heavily polluted air and of the less polluted air of a country town in the west. They reported:

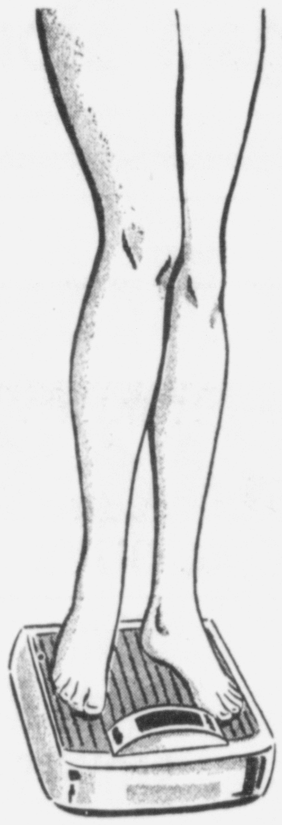

"Measurements showed that the daily intake of benzpyrene from breathing of the west country towns's air was equivalent in total volume to the intake from smoking about 40 cigarettes a day.

"In London it was equivalent to 100 a day.

"The conclusion is that it is most improbable that the amounts which would be absorbed from normal levels of smoking could be in any way injurious."

Some 3.2 million immigrants—about one-ninth of the total population increase— came to the United States between 1946 and the end of 1956.

People . . . Places . . . and Things

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. Kelley

Work of scalping away blue grass which had not been disturbed for 60 to 70 years and preparing for a parking lot on the premises formerly occupied by "Stone Cottage", in front of the big Armco plant, is nearing completion.

Later, in all probability, the area will be blacktopped.

The tract of about two acres had been in blue grass continuously for more than 60 years.

The grass and earth, scores of truck loads, went to make a fill on the Wilson tract back of the Pure Oil Station, off Dayton and Oakland Aves.

Monday a few trees along the southern edge of the tract were removed, completing the parking site which is ready for the application of crushed stone.

The tract is immediately north of Armco's office building on Route 35.

BEES SWARMING

That hot weather beginning Sunday was just too much for the honeybees, and they started to do something about it.

Space was too precious for large numbers of excess bees newly hatched, so their queens got the urge to depart from the old home place, and go hence.

That is the reason Dana Kellenger, city, drove through a swarm of bees in flight, on the New Holland and Bloomingburg Rd., Sunday afternoon.

And a swarm coming from some unknown hive, stopped in a small weeping willow tree at the home of Harley Jones, 741 Rawlings St., near the noon hour Monday.

Also Monday afternoon a small swarm appeared at Bud Simpson's Market on W. Elm St., proceeded to settle on a cement wall on the east side of his parking place.

The swarm was unusually small one, unless part of them had crawled into an opening in the concrete wall before I inspected them.

"PROPHET" TALKS

Take it from the "Paint Valley Prophet", there is considerable hot and dry weather ahead.

In making this forecast, the Prophet did not give any reason for basing his belief, like the tops of "crawdad" homes being higher, or a fog in April.

July and August are the unusally hot and dry months, the "prophet" stated.

Based on the theory that "one extreme follows another" the hot weather later in the summer could be expected, due to the cool weather much of the past two months.

LOADSTONE IN COUNTY

As community interest centers on the effort being made to find oil and gas in the county, it is interesting to know that within a few miles of where the wildcat well is being sunk by Kewanee Oil Co., there is loadstone (also spelled lodestone) of such magnetic strength that it was with difficulty that the drill being used in a stone quarry could be brought to the surface.

This was in a quarry on the Johnson farm at the west end of the Rock Mills bridge over Paint Creek, and the depth was as I recall it about 40 feet from the surface.

Also in the same quarry a thin layer of limestone containing asphalt was found, but it was not in paying quantities.

Some zinc ore also was found in the same quarry, as in most of the quarries within a radius of 20 miles of Greenfield.

I have also found it in Blue Rock Quarry, the former Rucker Quarry at Greenfield, and, the largest deposit, in a quarry near New Veinna.

OLD TIME ORCHARDS

Sixty years ago and even less, there were many exceptionally good orchards in Fayette County, where apples, peaches, plums, quinces and grapes were grown—without spraying.

In those days an orchard was just as much a part of the average farm as the corn and wheat fields, and choice fruit in large quantities was grown, dried, canned and stored to tide though the winter months.

If there was no other way the winter apples were piled on straw in the garden, covered with straw, and then two feet or more of earth shoveled over the apples until the conical mound was of sufficient size to protect the fruit from the coldest weather.

I remember as a boy, the orchard of Mr. and Mrs. John Gooch, of the Bloomingburg and Sedalia Rd. (Route 38), the farm now owned by Mrs. John Brown, city.

The orchard occupied several acres, and was located immediately north of the Gooch home, and extended from the highway eastward some 200 yards.

This was a typical old-time orchard, with such apples as rambeaus, "sheep nose" or Martha Washington, Winesaps, Early harvest, "greenings," Russets, Never Fail, White Pippins, Summer Sweets, Old Smoke House, Paradise Sweets, Maiden Blush, Smith Cider, Rome Beauty, Baldwin, Grimes Golden, Happy Hawkins, Beliflower, etc.

Most of the old time apples are now rarely found in markets, and are practically lost to the present generation.

Injunction Sought

CINCINNATI (AP) — Standard Oil Co. of Ohio has asked Common Pleas Court for a temporary injunction against mass picketing at its Latonia, Ky., plant. The company petition said the firm has a non-strike, non-lockout clause in its agreement with the Independent Oil Workers of Ohio, covering some employes, including drivers, at the bulk distributing plant. The union seeks a 35 cent hourly wage increase.

Astro-Weatherman Rarely Is Wrong

George Does It - - But Good!

BY ART CROCKETT
Central Press Assn.

NEWARK,N.J.— Back in September 1947, George McCormack of Fair Lawn, N.J., printed a weather report and sent it to over 300 industries and newspapers in the New York area warning them of a cold and early winter with an unusually heavy snowfall.

Three months later that section of the country was hit by one of the worst blizzards of the century.

McCormack's prediction was not spontaneous. At that time he'd already had 33 years of weather study behind him and was a well-known authority on long range forecasting.

However, it was the one important incident which catapulted him from an enthusiastic hobbyist to founder and president of the General Long Range Weather service in Newark.

AFTER a deluge of requests for forecasts, McCormack was prompted to start the thriving business which services industrial and public subscribers in 36 states.

Often, the United States Air Force calls upon him for his opinions.

In leafing through Hick's Almanac for 1914, McCormack was attracted by their prediction of the great Galveston flood.

The prediction was ignored, but its accuracy created in McCormack an interest that is still going strong after 43 years of devoted study.

TO EARN a living, George joined the New York Telephone company in 1917 and stayed with the concern for 35 years. His spare time was spent in the study of meteorology.

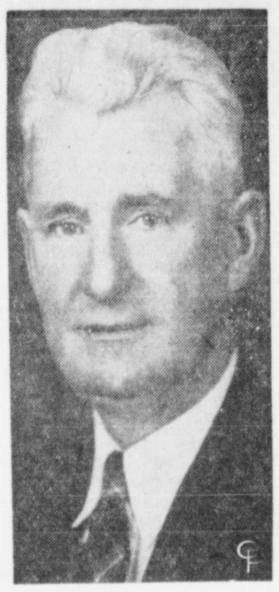

One result was his book, A Textbook of Long Range Weather Forecasting, which he printed himself on a mimeograph machine. Last year one of the copies was sold in Washington D. C., for $25.

Early in his career as an astro-weatherman, McCormack came up with an unorthodox conception about weather which met with violent disagreement from established experts.

The novel idea, although not entirely his own, was that it is not enough merely to consider the effect of the sun and the moon on our weather; that to calculate a truly accurate forecast it is necessary to encompass all of the planets and other bodies in our solar system.

DESPITE the criticism, McCormack stuck to his theory. He worked at his calculations and kept day by day weather records. the accuracy of his predictions so far have proved him right.

George McCormack

Another theory expounded by McCormack is that certain seasonal extremes in weather appear to repeat themselves about 87 degrees west of the same position one year later.

For example, Europeans suffered through a bitterly cold winter in 1946-1947. The U. S. was the victim of that freeze one year later, during 1947-1948.

Pushing 70, McCormack admits to an occasional failure. "Meteorology is not an exact science and no man is infallible," says George. "However, there was one sharp character who thought I was pretty good."

McCormack refers to a New York state mechanic who regularly sent the astro-weatherman $2 for a forecast. McCormack complied for some time—until he found out the mechanic was taking bets on his predictions.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. Kelley

Work of scalping away blue grass which had not been disturbed for 60 to 70 years and preparing for a parking lot on the premises formerly occupied by "Stone Cottage", in front of the big Armco plant, is nearing completion.

Later, in all probability, the area will be blacktopped.

The tract of about two acres had been in blue grass continuously for more than 60 years.

The grass and earth, scores of truck loads, went to make a fill on the Wilson tract back of the Pure Oil Station, off Dayton and Oakland Aves.

Monday a few trees along the southern edge of the tract were removed, completing the parking site which is ready for the application of crushed stone.

The tract is immediately north of Armco's office building on Route 35.

BEES SWARMING

That hot weather beginning Sunday was just too much for the honeybees, and they started to do something about it.

Space was too precious for large numbers of excess bees newly hatched, so their queens got the urge to depart from the old home place, and go hence.

That is the reason Dana Kellenger, city, drove through a swarm of bees in flight, on the New Holland and Bloomingburg Rd., Sunday afternoon.

And a swarm coming from some unknown hive, stopped in a small weeping willow tree at the home of Harley Jones, 741 Rawlings St., near the noon hour Monday.

Also Monday afternoon a small swarm appeared at Bud Simpson's Market on W. Elm St., proceeded to settle on a cement wall on the east side of his parking place.

The swarm was unusually small one, unless part of them had crawled into an opening in the concrete wall before I inspected them.

"PROPHET" TALKS

Take it from the "Paint Valley Prophet", there is considerable hot and dry weather ahead.

In making this forecast, the Prophet did not give any reason for basing his belief, like the tops of "crawdad" homes being higher, or a fog in April.

July and August are the unusally hot and dry months, the "prophet" stated.

Based on the theory that "one extreme follows another" the hot weather later in the summer could be expected, due to the cool weather much of the past two months.

LOADSTONE IN COUNTY

As community interest centers on the effort being made to find oil and gas in the county, it is interesting to know that within a few miles of where the wildcat well is being sunk by Kewanee Oil Co., there is loadstone (also spelled lodestone) of such magnetic strength that it was with difficulty that the drill being used in a stone quarry could be brought to the surface.

This was in a quarry on the Johnson farm at the west end of the Rock Mills bridge over Paint Creek, and the depth was as I recall it about 40 feet from the surface.

Also in the same quarry a thin layer of limestone containing asphalt was found, but it was not in paying quantities.

Some zinc ore also was found in the same quarry, as in most of the quarries within a radius of 20 miles of Greenfield.

I have also found it in Blue Rock Quarry, the former Rucker Quarry at Greenfield, and, the largest deposit, in a quarry near New Veinna.

OLD TIME ORCHARDS

Sixty years ago and even less, there were many exceptionally good orchards in Fayette County, where apples, peaches, plums, quinces and grapes were grown—without spraying.

In those days an orchard was just as much a part of the average farm as the corn and wheat fields, and choice fruit in large quantities was grown, dried, canned and stored to tide though the winter months.

If there was no other way the winter apples were piled on straw in the garden, covered with straw, and then two feet or more of earth shoveled over the apples until the conical mound was of sufficient size to protect the fruit from the coldest weather.

I remember as a boy, the orchard of Mr. and Mrs. John Gooch, of the Bloomingburg and Sedalia Rd. (Route 38), the farm now owned by Mrs. John Brown, city.

The orchard occupied several acres, and was located immediately north of the Gooch home, and extended from the highway eastward some 200 yards.

This was a typical old-time orchard, with such apples as rambeaus, "sheep nose" or Martha Washington, Winesaps, Early harvest, "greenings," Russets, Never Fail, White Pippins, Summer Sweets, Old Smoke House, Paradise Sweets, Maiden Blush, Smith Cider, Rome Beauty, Baldwin, Grimes Golden, Happy Hawkins, Beliflower, etc.

Most of the old time apples are now rarely found in markets, and are practically lost to the present generation.

Injunction Sought

CINCINNATI (AP) — Standard Oil Co. of Ohio has asked Common Pleas Court for a temporary injunction against mass picketing at its Latonia, Ky., plant. The company petition said the firm has a non-strike, non-lockout clause in its agreement with the Independent Oil Workers of Ohio, covering some employes, including drivers, at the bulk distributing plant. The union seeks a 35 cent hourly wage increase.

Astro-Weatherman Rarely Is Wrong

George Does It - - But Good!

BY ART CROCKETT
Central Press Assn.

NEWARK, N.J.— Back in September 1947, George McCormack of Fair Lawn, N.J., printed a weather report and sent it to over 300 industries and newspapers in the New York area warning them of a cold and early winter with an unusually heavy snowfall.

Three months later that section of the country was hit by one of the worst blizzards of the century

McCormack's prediction was not spontaneous. At that time he'd already had 33 years of weather study behind him and was a well-known authority on long range forecasting

However, it was the one important incident which catapulted him from an enthusiastic hobbyist to founder and president of the General Long Range Weather service in Newark.

AFTER a deluge of requests for forecasts, McCormack was prompted to start the thriving business which services industrial and public subscribers in 36 states.

Often, the United States Air Force calls upon him for his opinions.

In leafing through Hick's Almanac for 1914, McCormack was attracted by their prediction of the great Galveston flood.

The prediction was ignored, but its accuracy created in McCormack an interest that is still going strong after 43 years of devoted study.

TO EARN a living, George joined the New York Telephone company in 1917 and stayed with the concern for 35 years. His spare time was spent in the study of meteorology.

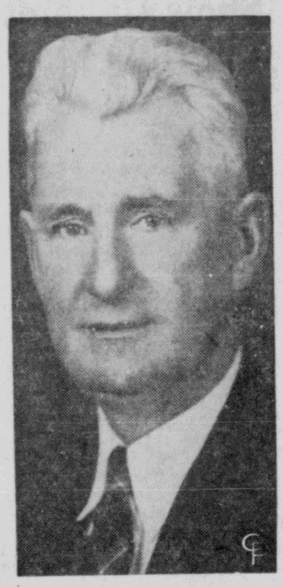

One result was his book, A Textbook of Long Range Weather Forecasting, which he printed himself on a mimeograph machine. Last year one of the copies was sold in Washington D. C., for $25.

Early in his career as an astro-weatherman, McCormack came up with an unorthodox conception about weather which met with violent disagreement from established experts.

The novel idea, although not entirely his own, was that it is not enough merely to consider the effect of the sun and the moon on our weather; that to calculate a truly accurate forecast it is necessary to encompass all of the planets and other bodies in our solar system.

DESPITE the criticism, McCormack stuck to his theory. He worked at his calculations and kept day by day weather records. the accuracy of his predictions so far have proved him right.

Prison 'Walls of Ivy'

Full College Courses Offered to Convicts

by JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Assn.

JOILET, Ill. —Illinois' State-ville-Joliet prison here will become "walls of ivy" under a plan to bring college courses for full credit to the inmates via television.

The newest educational project of Warden Joseph E. Ragan is designed to make it possible for some of the 4,500 inmates to complete grade school, earn a high school certificate, and "go to college" for two years and get a junior college degree by taking the Chicago junior college television course.

The college courses are the same daytime courses that now are being televised for credit throughout the Chicago area by the junior college in English, biology, social science and political science, using the facilities of the new, strictly educational television station WTTW.

"I'm a nut on education," Ragan admits. "We teach 42 different vocations in our vocational school, and it is my desire to further this academic education program with televised college courses.'

THE WARDEN has waged something of a campaign for "his boys" to be given the same tuition-free treatment for television classes in the junior college as is available by law to residents of Chicago, pointing out that 80 per cent of them are "residents" of the city but "temporarily absent."

In 20 years of firm yet kindly administration which has transformed an archaic Nineteenth Century penal setup with grim, circular cell blocks, into a model prison, Ragan has become one of the most sought - after authorities in the country to advise state governors and penologists on how to manage tough security units on a rehabilitation basis.

ONE OF Ragan's greatest discoveries is the huge gardening program which each spring spreads 500,000 plants from the prison greenhouses over the "lawns" of the prison, and changes them into brilliant carpets of color which delight and amaze prisoners and visitors alike.

Stateville is known as one of the toughest prisons in the country, considering the kind of crimes being atoned for by the inmates, but the flowers bring a kind of "Ferdinand the Bull" gentleness to the whole population.

Running a shipshape prison is another of Ragan's trump cards. Work details constantly manicure the dining rooms, kitchen, hospital, offices, cellhouses, factories and shops until they are as clean as the sickbay on a U. S. Navy vessel. This helps the relatively old $100 million plant with a rated capacity of only 1,500 to handle three times that many.

One thing that Ragan never loses sight of, however, is that 96 per cent of the men eventually are going out of there, and he wants "to do something for them while they're here" in the way of preparing them to earn a living.

The training is realistic, however, and does not aim for such jobs as watch and jewelry repairing, figuring that they would be rare for these "graduates."

EIGHT YEARS ago the high school was organized, and graduation ceremonies are held twice a year. "Our school term runs from January to June 30, and from July 1 to Dec. 31; there is no vacation time in prison," explains the schoolmaster - warden.

Local high school authorities in the area help with the holding of examinations and providing a staff. A faculty of 30 inmate-instructors does the rest.

That there now is a need for college courses is regarded as a significant commentary on how the educational deficiences that mark the prison population generally are being made up. slowly but surely.

There are more than 100 taking the regular high school courses now, and 670 taking courses by mail. About 4 per cent are ready for college because they now have their high school degrees.

Ragan is determined to give them a chance, and for Dean Peter Masiko of Chicago Junior College it is "another demonstration that educational television gets to places you couldn't ordinarily reach."

Always cut stew meat into neat uniform pieces so they will brown and cook evenly.

Ohioana Library Tour Set Sunday

Historic Lake County will be the scene of the 1957 spring pilgrimage of the Martha Kinney Cooper Ohioana Library Assn. Mrs. M. Y. Newcomb, of Cincinnati, is the president.

Mrs. Olive Gidding, Washington C. H., is general chairman of the pilgrimage which will be held Saturday and is open to members and their guests.

Points of interest to be visited include Lake Erie College and the beautiful Mathews House in Painesville, the Mormon Temple at Kirtland, "Lawnfield", the home of President Garfield at Mentor, Fairport Harbor Lighthouse, Unionville Tavern and nearby "Shandy Hall", a privately owned early Ohio home that has not been changed since it was built ad furnished in the first part of the last century.

Members of the tour will assemble on the campus of Lake Erie College. From there they will travel from point to point in chargered buses and will have lunch at the historic Lutz's Hotel, known as Rider Tavern when it was built in 1815.

After lunch a short talk on the history of Lake County will be presented by Mrs. Robert Collacott. Arrangements in Lake County are being handled by Mrs. Harold Furlong of Painesville and a committee of Lake County members of the Ohioana Library.

Drill Bits Don't Last Long In Fayette County Test Well

It's taking a lot of case-hardened steel rotary bits to make the first test well for oil and gas in Fayette County. Some of the bits come up so badly mauled that they have little cutting power left.

In ordinary rock one of the bits will last 24 to 48 hours, but in some of the extremely hard formations encountered here, a bit can be worn out in a matter of hours.

OF THE ROTARY drills in the accompanying photo, the two in the center are badly worn, the second from the right having been so used up that most of the "teeth" were simply worn knobs. Those at left and right have not been so badly worn, but were discarded as not being fit four further drilling.

A diamond bit is included in the Kewanee Oil Co.'s equipment, and is used when coring is necessary for better study of the rock through which the drill is passing.

A new type drill, with knobs instead of teeth, for use in extremely hard strata, is ready for use if it is needed.

THE DRILL BITS pictured here weight 5 pounds each, and are of exceptionally hard steel. The three-wheels with cutting "teeth" are mounted on ball bearings, and stone chips from these bits are forced to the surface by the circulating drillers' mud. This means the bits can keep going without interruption until they are worn out.

Benjamin Franklin could play the harmonica, musical glasses, harp, guitar and violin. He also composed lyrics for many popular songs.

World's Respect for U. S. Lost, Truman Tells Audience

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Harry S Truman said Wednesday night that the Eisenhower administration had abdicated its international responsibilities and lost the confidence and respect of the rest of the free world.

"We now seem to be slipping backward as the forces of communism advance in the Middle East and Far East and the alliance of free nations is beset by differences and doubts," the former President declared. He spoke at a $100-a-plate Democratic dinner in this state capital.

"The fault lies in the lack of leadership in the State Department and the White House," he said. "Our allies have come to the conclusion that they cannot trust our foreign policy, and our foes have decided that most of the time our leaders are bluffing and they need not fear them."

Truman called for continued support of the United Nations, of the United States defense program and for expansion of economic aid to poorer countries.

He said pressure must be put on President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles "to do their jobs right" and that "the only way we can do this is through the Democratic leaders in Congress."

He added that the administration was "not satisfied with bungling our foreign policy' and had also "balled up our domestic finance."

"If the country doesn't go bust after these Republicans 'put labor in its place," ruin the farmer and put little business—real free enterprise—on ice, maybe the Democrats can bring the government back to the people in 1958 and 1960," he told an audience of nearly 5,000.

Prison 'Walls of Ivy'

Full College Courses Offered to Convicts

by JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Assn.

JOILET, Ill. —Illinois' Stateville-Joliet prison here will become "walls of ivy" under a plan to bring college courses for full credit to the inmates via television.

The newest educational project of Warden Joseph E. Ragan is designed to make it possible for some of the 4,500 inmates to complete grade school, earn a high school certificate, and "go to college" for two years and get a junior college degree by taking the Chicago junior college television course.

The college courses are the same daytime courses that now are being televised for credit throughout the Chicago area by the junior college in English, biology, social science and political science, using the facilities of the new, strictly educational television station WTTW.

"I'm a nut on education," Ragan admits. "We teach 42 different vocations in our vocational school, and it is my desire to further this academic education program with televised college courses.'

THE WARDEN has waged something of a campaign for "his boys" to be given the same tuition-free treatment for television classes in the junior college as is available by law to residents of Chicago, pointing out that 80 per cent of them are "residents" of the city but "temporarily absent."

In 20 years of firm yet kindly administration which has transformed an archaic Nineteenth Century penal setup with grim, circular cell blocks, into a model prison, Ragan has become one of the most sought - after authorities in the country to advise state governors and penologists on how to manage tough security units on a rehabilitation basis.

ONE OF Ragan's greatest discoveries is the huge gardening program which each spring spreads 500,000 plants from the prison greenhouses over the "lawns" of the prison, and changes them into brilliant carpets of color which delight and amaze prisoners and visitors alike.

Stateville is known as one of the toughest prisons in the country, considering the kind of crimes being atoned for by the inmates, but the flowers bring a kind of "Ferdinand the Bull" gentleness to the whole population.

Running a shipshape prison is another of Ragan's trump cards. Work details constantly manicure the dining rooms, kitchen, hospital, offices, cellhouses, factories and shops until they are as clean as the sickbay on a U. S. Navy vessel. This helps the relatively old $100 million plant with a rated capacity of only 1,500 to handle three times that many.

One thing that Ragan never loses sight of, however, is that 96 per cent of the men eventually are going out of there, and he wants "to do something for them while they're here" in the way of preparing them to earn a living.

The training is realistic, however, and does not aim for such jobs as watch and jewelry repairing, figuring that they would be rare for these "graduates."

EIGHT YEARS ago the high school was organized, and graduation ceremonies are held twice a year. "Our school term runs from January to June 30, and from July 1 to Dec. 31; there is no vacation time in prison," explains the schoolmaster - warden.

Local high school authorities in the area help with the holding of examinations and providing a staff. A faculty of 30 inmate-instructors does the rest.

That there now is a need for college courses is regarded as a significant commentary on how the educational deficiences that mark the prison population generally are being made up. slowly but surely.

There are more than 100 taking the regular high school courses now, and 670 taking courses by mail. About 4 per cent are ready for college because they now have their high school degrees.

Ragan is determined to give them a chance, and for Dean Peter Masiko of Chicago Junior College it is "another demonstration that educational television gets to places you couldn't ordinarily reach."

Always cut stew meat into neat uniform pieces so they will brown and cook evenly.

'Pitching' For Exemption Top Baseball Personalities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball leaders were to go back to Congress today to renew their argument that the government should keep its gloves off the game.

Commissioner Ford Frick, who Wednesday testified in defense of baseball's player reserve clause and other practices, faced additional questioning by the House Antitrust Subcommittee.

Other top personalities of baseball management were in the bull pen, waiting to relieve Frick in attacking proposals to place the sport under federal antitrust jurisdiction.

George M. Trautman, president of the minor leagues, was armed with testimony to support his position that regulating baseball by the antitrust laws "would probably destroy the game."

Presidents Will Harridge of the American League and Warren C. Giles of the National League also were on tap. They could be held over until next week, however, if the subcommittee quizzes Frick and Trautman at the same length it has previous witnesses.

REP. MacDonald (D-Mass), a former player in the New York Yankee chain, and C. Leo De Orsey, a director of Washington's American League club, also were asked to appear today for the subcommittee's inquiry into the legal status of professional team sports.

MacDonald had a prepared statement recommending that pro sports enterprises be subjected to antitrust controls but exempted from certain prohibitions aimed at big business in the usual sense.

MacDonald said a poll of sports writers showed 103 of the 275 responding thought antitrust laws should cover pro sports, although 33 of these suggested excluding baseball alone. Another 95 felt all should be exempted and 57 favored exempting only football and baseball. Twenty were undecided.

The Supreme Court has held baseball is immune but football and boxing are affected by the antimonopoly laws. This difference in status prompted the House group to call the present hearings.

No Charges Planned in Bar Shooting

BOWLING GREEN Ohio (AP) — Prosecuting Atty. Robert A. Fries said Wednesday no charges will be filed against 22-year-old Gerald Bryant, who police said fired the shots that killed one man and wounded another.

The shooting occurred in a tavern Monday night. Killed was Rudy Scheondorf. 21, of Kansas, Ohio. Recovering from a bullet wound in his mouth is Norman Mooney 22, of nearby Portage, Ohio. Both men recently signed professional football contracts, Mooney with the New York Giants of the National Football League and Scheondorf with the Green Bay Packers of the same league.

Both were on the football team at Miami (Ohio) University before flunking out of school a year ago, school officials said.

The shooting took place at the Golden Lily Tavern on U.S. 6, about six miles east of here, after Scheondorf became involved in an argument with the bartender, Gerald Bryant, 22.

Beaten Man Won Case With 'Hole in Head'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals has ruled that a man does not have to be an expert to know if he suffers a "hole in his head."

As a result, the court upheld the conviction and one-year prison sentence given Quinton J. Rawlinson for whipping Henry Mills with a bullwhip outside a tavern.

Mills complained that one of the injuries he received was a "hole in his head."

Rawlinson's attorneys objected there was no expert medical evidence to support such testimony The court said Mills didn't have to be an expert and upheld the sentence.

"I saw him smack her one time and when I saw him smack her the second time, I smacked them $5," the judge said.

New Holland Lions And Sons Go to Game in Cincinnati

Two chartered busses filled with baseball fans of all ages will leave New Holland at 5 p. m. today for Cincinnati, where they will see the Redlegs tackle the Brooklyn Dodgers.

In the busses will be around 80 members of the New Holland Lions Club and their sons, about evenly divided. A few of the Lions, who have no sons or whose sons are too young, will take boys they "adopted" for the evening.

The excursionists will eat an early supper before they leave, but the fathers plan to entertain their sons for a snack on the way back home after the game. Just where the busses will stop for the post-game refreshments is uncertain, but one of the Lions said "it probably will be at one of the drive-ins along the highway. . .and we'll pick out a good one."

Arrangements for the trip were made by Robert Rowland, club president, Don Adams and William Frience.

The New Holland Lions are planning another trip to Cincinnati for a baseball game late next month. On this one, they will be accompanied by the Lionesses.

U. S.-Japan Talks Aim for 'New Era'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japan's Prime Minister Kishi and Secretary of State Dulles buckle down to intensive marathon talks today aimed at creating a "new era" in Japanese-American relations.

Kishi will also address the Senate and House today.

He told Japanese newsmen in an embassy news conference Wednesday night he was highly satisfied with his first meeting with President Eisenhower Wednesday. The two leaders conferred, lunched and golfed together for almost six hours.

Kishi said the opening talks with the President laid down broad general principles. His meetings with Dulles would follow the framework of these principles in ironing out specific problems.

Neither U.S. nor Japanese officials would say what the talks dealt with specifically, but it was acknowledged that the whole range of policy issues was explored.

This meant more than a dozen topics from trade with Communist China to revision of the mutual security treaty between Japan and the United States had been touched upon.

'Pitching' For Exemption Top Baseball Personalities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball leaders were to go back to Congress today to renew their argument that the government should keep its gloves off the game.

Commissioner Ford Frick, who Wednesday testified in defense of baseball's player reserve clause and other practices, faced additional questioning by the House Antitrust Subcommittee.

Other top personalities of baseball management were in the bull pen, waiting to relieve Frick in attacking proposals to place the sport under federal antitrust jurisdiction.

George M. Trautman, president of the minor leagues, was armed with testimony to support his position that regulating baseball by the antitrust laws "would probably destroy the game."

Presidents Will Harridge of the American League and Warren C. Giles of the National League also were on tap. They could be held over until next week, however, if the subcommittee quizzes Frick and Trautman at the same length it has previous witnesses.

REP. MacDonald (D-Mass), a former player in the New York Yankee chain, and C. Leo De Orsey, a director of Washington's American League club, also were asked to appear today for the subcommittee's inquiry into the legal status of professional team sports.

MacDonald had a prepared statement recommending that pro sports enterprises be subjected to antitrust controls but exempted from certain prohibitions aimed at big business in the usual sense.

MacDonald said a poll of sports writers showed 103 of the 275 responding thought antitrust laws should cover pro sports, although 33 of these suggested excluding baseball alone. Another 95 felt all should be exempted and 57 favored exempting only football and baseball. Twenty were undecided.

The Supreme Court has held baseball is immune but football and boxing are affected by the antimonopoly laws. This difference in status prompted the House group to call the present hearings.

No Charges Planned in Bar Shooting

BOWLING GREEN Ohio (AP) — Prosecuting Atty. Robert A. Fries said Wednesday no charges will be filed against 22-year-old Gerald Bryant, who police said fired the shots that killed one man and wounded another.

The shooting occurred in a tavern Monday night. Killed was Rudy Scheondorf. 21, of Kansas, Ohio. Recovering from a bullet wound in his mouth is Norman Mooney 22, of nearby Portage, Ohio. Both men recently signed professional football contracts, Mooney with the New York Giants of the National Football League and Scheondorf with the Green Bay Packers of the same league.

Both were on the football team at Miami (Ohio) University before flunking out of school a year ago, school officials said.

The shooting took place at the Golden Lily Tavern on U.S. 6, about six miles east of here, after Scheondorf became involved in an argument with the bartender, Gerald Bryant, 22.

Beaten Man Won Case With 'Hole in Head'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals has ruled that a man does not have to be an expert to know if he suffers a "hole in his head."

As a result, the court upheld the conviction and one-year prison sentence given Quinton J. Rawlinson for whipping Henry Mills with a bullwhip outside a tavern.

Mills complained that one of the injuries he received was a "hole in his head."

Rawlinson's attorneys objected there was no expert medical evidence to support such testimony The court said Mills didn't have to be an expert and upheld the sentence.

New Holland Lions And Sons Go to Game in Cincinnati

Two chartered busses filled with baseball fans of all ages will leave New Holland at 5 p. m. today for Cincinnati, where they will see the Redlegs tackle the Brooklyn Dodgers.

In the busses will be around 80 members of the New Holland Lions Club and their sons, about evenly divided. A few of the Lions, who have no sons or whose sons are too young, will take boys they "adopted" for the evening.

The excursionists will eat an early supper before they leave, but the fathers plan to entertain their sons for a snack on the way back home after the game. Just where the busses will stop for the post-game refreshments is uncertain, but one of the Lions said "it probably will be at one of the drive-ins along the highway. . .and we'll pick out a good one."

Arrangements for the trip were made by Robert Rowland, club president, Don Adams and William Frience.

The New Holland Lions are planning another trip to Cincinnati for a baseball game late next month. On this one, they will be accompanied by the Lionesses.

U. S.-Japan Talks Aim for 'New Era'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japan's Prime Minister Kishi and Secretary of State Dulles buckle down to intensive marathon talks today aimed at creating a "new era" in Japanese-American relations.

Kishi will also address the Senate and House today.

He told Japanese newsmen in an embassy news conference Wednesday night he was highly satisfied with his first meeting with President Eisenhower Wednesday. The two leaders conferred, lunched and golfed together for almost six hours.

Kishi said the opening talks with the President laid down broad general principles. His meetings with Dulles would follow the framework of these principles in ironing out specific problems.

Neither U.S. nor Japanese officials would say what the talks dealt with specifically, but it was acknowledged that the whole range of policy issues was explored.

This meant more than a dozen topics from trade with Communist China to revision of the mutual security treaty between Japan and the United States had been touched upon.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 23, the same age as my husband. We have been married three years and have a year-old son. We have been very happy, much more since we married.

Is it unusual for me to begin to think back about boy friends I had in girlhood? Why do I remember one time in particular? Am I just now beginning to miss something in marriage? If so, what is it?

I've had an occasional telephone call from this or that former boy friend; and, at times, I've found myself wanting to call one or another. One came to visit our home he is married now, too.

This one, I'll call him Roy, had a great effect on my life when I was 13. We had dated for a year, then all at once he wouldn't speak to me or call or come near. I wanted to die, but was helped by a friend who gave me the will to live again, and the hope that I would find someone to care for me.

Can it be this same feeling, this fear of being left all alone, that haunts me now? My husband and I are more affectionate than most couples married three years; but he isn't too happy in his job. Due to rheumatic fever he didn't finish high school, so it is hard for him to get what he wants—especially as he isn't clear what that is. Should I try to help him find a more suitable job? If so, how would I go about it?

In my husband's condition could cause sudden death; so is my wanting to return to the past a symptom of feeling insecure?

In high school, when I was already in love with my husband-to-be, Roy started dating me again, and even wanted to marry me. I wasn't interested, but grateful that we were parting friends. Now my mind harks back to that time. I used to day dream a lot — too much. Maybe I need another baby, to keep me too busy to think.

I love my husband very much and always will; but he is so tired when he gets off work that we don't go out much. Please help me with these two problems—my day dreams, and my husband s job.

C. W.

DEAR C. W.: Your letter is an interesting example of "free association" — that is, letting the mind wander unguided, to track down the inner meaning of emotional listress.

In this recital, your mind harks back to a time of crisis at age 13, when you fell into a sort of depression, due to your feeling abandoned by fate.

It was the time when Roy had abruptly cast you off and refused to have anything to do with you, and you almost wanted to die because it seemed you had lost your connecting link with life.

Now much the same feeling has come over you in marriage, a feeling of being hopelessly out of things, marooned, as it were, on a desert island with just your husband and baby for company—with no close friends as an integral part of your life, and very little money for recreation, hospitality, etc., probably.

In short, you are socially isolated and stymied. Your husband's dislike of his job, his uncertain health and baffled attitude towards his future all worry you. So, being a childish sort of person, unprepared as yet to cope steadfastly with life's problems as they appear, you yearn unconsciously for "magic" deliverance from difficulties.

Thus your thoughts revert to Roy, who on the one hand symbolizes "anxiety state", and on the other hand, "hero-to-the-rescue", inasmuch as he once asked to marry you. The urge to call other old boy friends signifies lack of friends at present, and a "flight' from here-and-now, back to a more careless time, before you were a wife and mother.

My advice is: broaden the scope of your living. Cultiavte real friendships in your locality, get a hobby (say: flower growing), attend church, if possible do church work, and by these means rise out of stagnant anxiety. This kind of social maturing will do much to help your husband job-wise, too.

Many Social Activities Boom To Widows in U. S. Capital

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Why is Washington a widow's haven?

Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, who has called the capital home since the death in 1939 of her senator-husband, has the answers.

"There are so many things women can do and take part in here without having a man escort," she told me.

We got on the subject when Mrs. Lewis disclosed that the exclusive Chevy Chase Club, of which she has long been a member, has 189 widows on its roster.

"Of course, Washington is the most interesting city in the world, and there's always something going on," continued Mrs. Lewis, who is on everybody's party list and takes part in numerous charity benefits.

"It's much easier to live here. The town is so much smaller than Chicago, where we used to have a home, and less expensive. Besides, after you've lived in a place over 20 years you feel at home."

Mrs. Lewis has lived for the past 26 years in an apartment at the Mayflower Hotel. She usually spend a few months each year in a hotel apartment in Chicago, where she still has many friends and belongs to eight or 10 of the most exclusive clubs.

Mrs. Lewis notes with some dismay the "exceeding informalities of social life in the capital as compared to the long ago," when the rules for calling on the White House and other formal obligations were iron-clad. The late party hours and the telephoned invitations were among the informalities she cited.

Friends in Washington call Mrs. Lewis "Gypsy." She's an expert at palmistry, having made an extensive study of it since childhood, when gypsies encamped on the Savannah river near her Georgia home. She pursued the study in Romania, Italy, Spain, Turkey and Greece during the 72 visits she made to Europe with her husband.

"I've always been looking into other people's palms," she said. "It got so that every time I went to a dinner party I was besieged to tell fortunes. I've read some famous hands over the years."

Among prominent palms she's read were those of President Hoover, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Warren G. Harding, the last while he was still a senator.

At a recent luncheon, Mrs. Lewis was greeted warmly by Mamie Eisenhower. "Some day when I'm not so busy," the First Lady said, "I'd like to have you read my palm."

Plant To Be Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP)—John P. Gallagher, director of utilities at Piqua, Ohio, has told a joint atomic energy subcommittee that completion of an atomic power plant in Piqua will be delayed some 17 months beyone the garget date of late 1949 or early 1960. The extension is necessary, he said, because of a delay in separate research and development.

WASHINGTON (AP)—John P. Gallagher, director of utilities at Piqua, Ohio, has told a joint atomic energy subcommittee that completion of an atomic power plant in Piqua will be delayed some 17 months beyone the garget date of late 1949 or early 1960. The extension is necessary, he said, because of a delay in separate research and development.

Mars Observers Swap Notes, Plan Another Look In 1958

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP)—Astronomers from more than a dozen nations today completed the first step of their cooperative effort to solve some of the mysteries of Mars and voted to tackle the problem again in 1958.

The International Mars Committee voted to continue its world wide operations with an enlarged administrative setup and to formulate a new program for observation of the red plane when it again comes close to the earth next year.

They did this after a three-day meeting in which they heard the first results of the observations made last year, when Mars came to within 40 million miles of the globe.

Summarizing these reports, Dr. E. C. Slipher, committee chairman, said the initial work produced evidence that Mars may have weather something like that on Earth, but with greater extremes of temperature.

The Martian polar cap, which shows up on many of the thousands of pictures taken, apparently is shaped something like a three-decker sandwich, he added. with a foundation of surface material, a middle layer of ice and a white cloud in the atmosphere for a top.

The research also suggests, Dr Slipher said, that something happens on Mars which causes parts of its surface to darken suddenly but temporarily. This could be a moistening of the soil, he added If so, it means some kind of precipitation which would produce lifegiving water for visiting earthlings in the future.

Beef Gets Big Play In U. S. Food Marts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roast beef will be served at the dinner table—or barbecue grill—of many American families this weekend, judging by the weekly "special" planned by the nation's grocery stores.

Chuck roast and other lower-priced cuts of beef often are the big items in beef promotions, but chuck is soft-pedalled this week in favor of round steaks, sirloin steaks and porterhouse steaks.

Prices for fryer chickens are up around two cents a pound in some areas.

Pork prices are off from 2 to 11 cents in scattered localities.

Eggs, too, are from two to four cents a dozen more expensive this week, although the higherprices are expected to be only temporary since supplies are good. The heat wave in the Middle West and East has cut down a number of grade A eggs available for market, poultrymen say.

Iceberg, Romaine and Boston lettuce all are in the outstanding buy category among vegetables this week. New potatoes from California and the Carolinas, plus still heavy supplies of last fall's Maine crop, also are very cheap this week.

Snap beans, acbbage, radishes and bunched and topped beets also are rated outstanding buys as the crops available from nearby fields gradually increase every week. Good buys may be had from among yellow and green squash, corn, topped carrots and cucumbers, although the last-named are reported to have a wide range of quality and condition.

Watermelon heads the outstanding buy list among the fruits. Lemons and lines, however, are more expensive this week.

Some Days It Doesn't Pay

DALLAS (AP)—Harold Wynn, 30, figures Wednesday just wasn't his day.

As he tells it, he fell into a mud puddle walking to his car after work, then ran into a steel window, ripping his shirt. While driving home, a bus hit his car. As he waited for police, a second bus clipped it and a third bus bumped it minutes later.

Total damages were $700, partly covered by insurance.

Wynn was two hours late getting home to dinner with his mother-in-law.

Contract Awarded

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Co. has announced that Dake Industrial Products Co. of Parkersburg has been awarded a contract to construct a two million dollar aluminum processing plant at nearby Belpre, Ohio.

Mars Observers Swap Notes, Plan Another Look In 1958

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP)—Astronomers from more than a dozen nations today completed the first step of their cooperative effort to solve some of the mysteries of Mars and voted to tackle the problem again in 1958.

The International Mars Committee voted to continue its worldwide operations with an enlarged administrative setup and to formulate a new program for observation of the red plane when it again comes close to the earth next year.

They did this after a three-day meeting in which they heard the first results of the observations made last year, when Mars came to within 40 million miles of the globe.

Summarizing these reports, Dr. E. C. Slipher, committee chairman, said the initial work produced evidence that Mars may have weather something like that on Earth, but with greater extremes of temperature.

The Martian polar cap, which shows up on many of the thousands of pictures taken, apparently is shaped something like a three-decker sandwich, he added, with a foundation of surface material, a middle layer of ice and a white cloud in the atmosphere for a top.

The research also suggests, Dr Slipher said, that something happens on Mars which causes parts of its surface to darken suddenly but temporarily. This could be a moistening of the soil, he added If so, it means some kind of precipitation which would produce lifegiving water for visiting earthlings in the future.

Beef Gets Big Play In U. S. Food Marts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roast beef will be served at the dinner table—or barbecue grill—of many American families this weekend, judging by the weekly "special" planned by the nation's grocery stores.

Chuck roast and other lower-priced cuts of beef often are the big items in beef promotions, but chuck is soft-pedalled this week in favor of round steaks, sirloin steaks and porterhouse steaks.

Prices for fryer chickens are up around two cents a pound in some areas.

Pork prices are off from 2 to 11 cents in scattered localities.

Eggs, too, are from two to four cents a dozen more expensive this week, although the higherprices are expected to be only temporary since supplies are good. The heat wave in the Middle West and East has cut down a number of grade A eggs available for market, poultrymen say.

Iceberg, Romaine and Boston lettuce all are in the outstanding buy category among vegetables this week. New potatoes from California and the Carolinas, plus still heavy supplies of last fall's Maine crop, also are very cheap this week.

Snap beans, acbbage, radishes and bunched and topped beets also are rated outstanding buys as the crops available from nearby fields gradually increase every week. Good buys may be had from among yellow and green squash, corn, topped carrots and cucumbers, although the last-named are reported to have a wide range of quality and condition.

Watermelon heads the outstanding buy list among the fruits. Lemons and lines, however, are more expensive this week.

Some Days It Doesn't Pay

DALLAS (AP)—Harold Wynn, 30, figures Wednesday just wasn't his day.

As he tells it, he fell into a mud puddle walking to his car after work, then ran into a steel window, ripping his shirt. While driving home, a bus hit his car. As he waited for police, a second bus clipped it and a third bus bumped it minutes later.

Total damages were $700, partly covered by insurance.

Wynn was two hours late getting home to dinner with his mother-in-law.

U. S., Canada Move To Protect Virginal Wilderness

Last Frontier in North America

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER

As warm weather returns to the vast Quetico-Superior National Forest region on the Canadian-United States boundary at the western end of Lake Superior, life is reawakening on the last frontier of what once was the North American wilderness.

The big question looms as how long this 10 million acres of lakes, rivers and forests, still virtually the same as when French "voyageurs" first paddled into the streams, can be maintained as a great refuge from which wildlife may migrate to all points of the compass.

It is doubtful if so many groups of human beings ever have cooperated to try to keep intact at least one last conspicuous remnant of the way the New World looked to the explorers. Conservationists consider it one of the largest single tracts of nearly virginal wilderness land left on earth.

At the top are twin commissions of the United States and Canadian governments. In the United States, it is a joint project of the Departments of State, Treasury, Agriculture and Interior. Also very much in the picture are the state of Minnesota and the province of Ontario.

ALTHOUGH the project was started in 1909, when President Theodore Roosevelt established the Superior National Forest and Ontario the Quetico Provincial Park, a big job still is to acquire lands in the area which had fallen into private ownership.

More than $100,000 has been donated by the public for this purpose, as well as funds appropriated by Congress Forestry, ecology, and land use experts in coming months will further butress the region against the encroachments of civilization "Friends of the Wilderness," an organization backing the program, has undreds of members throughout the country.

Five Presidents have pushed the project along, but none has taken more personal interest in it than Mr. Eisenhower, who 10 years ago, while still president of Columbia university, assisted in bringing about the creation of the Canadian committee which is a counterpart of the United States group.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt perior committee, with three members to be appointed by the White House and one each by the secretaries of Agriculture and the Interior. President Truman in 1947 enlarged the committee's authority.

The last frontier—the Quetico-Superior area—has 10 million acres of lakes and forest such as these.

Quetico-Superior area.

TWO of the original members still serve: Charles Kelly, Chicago, chairman, and Ernest Oberholtzer, Ranier, Minn. A former president of the Isaak Walton League of America, Paul Clement of Minnesota is the third White House aptee.

Strong international friendships have developed among the conservationists taking the lead in preserving the area. Chairman of the first Canadian committee was Vincent Massey, now governor general.

Although not on the United States committee officially, F. B. Hubachek, one of the leading American conservationists associated with Chairman Kelly, is an active leader.

Lapping against the southern margin of the area is a great sea of human population of more than 45 million within a 750-mile radius. Prospecting indicates the presence of low grade deposits of copper, nickle and cobalt in the region, and mining interests are seeking long-term leases to explore and develop these.

IF THE NATIONAL economic necessity for these resources increases to the point where values have to be balanced and they must be developed, the plan is to carefully screen them from the wilderness areas to be preserved.

Conservationists in the United States and Canada are agreed American continent's last best that Quetico-Superior is the North hope to maintain an area "unspoiled by civilization," where future generations may see what the pioneers encountered in their "Westward Ho!"

Foreign Car Appeal Hikes Sales In U. S.

Imported Autos Striking Gains In 1957 First Quarter

BUSINESS MIRROR
By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Those foreign cars once a fad along the seacoasts are now scooting right down the middle of the country. Sales this year are reported in all of the 48 states. Greatest sales growth has been in the midlands.

They have invaded the home state of the American auto. The British Automobile Manufacturers Assn. says sales of English cars in Michigan in the first four months of 1957 jumped 543 per cent over the same period of 1956, to boost Michigan from 14th place among the states to fourth.

Dealers say appeal of the foreign car lies with:

1. The economy minded, especially those wanting a 'second car — and this is particularly true among young people with limited incomes but less limited families.

2. The sports minded—and this has led to a marked increase in amateur sports car races, some drawing crowds up to 60,000.

3. The prestige minded, who shell out $12,500 or more for a luxury chariot.

4. The tourist, who can order a foreign car here, take delivery in Europe, and still bring it back at a saving over the retail price charges and 10 per cent U.S. customs duty.

The economy models, $1,700 or less, were sold here last year by six European manufacturers. Now there are 16 in the field. They ship from England, France, Germany, Italy, Sweden, Czechoslovakia. They expect to bring in about 125 million dollars worth of cars and parts this year.

Eurpoe has been speeding procution to capture these coveted dollars, inspired by the spiraling sales of the Volkswagen which went from 1,300 in 1953 to 50,000 in 1956.

Total sales in the first quarter of this year were double those of the same period a year ago.

Renault of France reports sales near 2,000, a jump of 500 per cent. The French Citroen and Simca are stepping up shipments.

The British say their first four months sales of all sizes were 17,300, up 154 per cent. The gain among the smaller ones, the Austin, English Ford, Hillman, Morris and Sunbeam, was higher — 174 per cent.

Fiat of Italy converted a liberty ship into a floating garage to carry 1,000 cars to the West Coast. The port of Los Angeles predicts another big jump in car imports there this year. Last year's total was around 12,000, astrikin'g gain from the 7,000 that entered in 1955.

Sales of all foreign car models jumped 50 per cent last year. And this year the makers are out to double their market.

It's still a puny one compared to the one Detroitcommands, but it's growing and sassy.

TV Viewers See Fun In Old Movies

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Some of the old movies are a boon to inveterate TV viewers in this dull summer season.

'To be perfectly fair about it, there are some dreadful old movies. They don't seem to have quibbled much over authenticity when making movies in Hollywood back in the 1930's.

But there was plenty of fun — and, thanks to TV, there's still fun.

Probably I'm getting old, or jaded, but it seems to me they don't make movies these days as uncritically comic as "Bringing Up Baby," starring Cary Grant and Katharine Hepburn (vintage 1938).

Broad, yes. Slapstick, definitely. But very fast. They pulled out all the stops and let her roar. Implausible and even impossible, it doesn't especially matter. Hepburn and Grant and Charles Ruggles and Barry Fitzgerald and May Robson seemed to be having a good time. So I had a good time too.

Perhaps the best thing about an old movie on TV is that you don't anticipate much good in it. You suspend hope before you turn it on, and so you suspend your critical faculties. Thus, whatever good you find in an old movie comes as a pleasant surprise.

Whether or not you've seen the movie before doesn't much matter. In fact, I seldom can remember whether I've seen it.

Judge To Keep Turnpike FrePlaza Free Of Stench

BRYAN, Ohio (AP) — A common pleas judge said Tuesday he will issue a permanent injunction prohibiting farmer J. Russell McKarns to feed or house pigs within a certain distance from the Ohio Turnpike's Tiffin River plaza during June, July, August and September.

Judge Russell Maxwell said he had written the lawyers concerned of his decision, but that so far as he was concerned, it would not be official until a journal entry is made.

The Turnpike Commission and Buddies Food Service, Inc., of Toledo, which operates a restaurant at the plaza, had sought the order against McKarns.

They complained that pigs McKarns raised in a field next to the plaza made a stench and drew flies.

Okay, so the St. Louis Cardinals look great, just half a game out of the National League lead. But you've got to split the credits between a long streak and a short memory.

They hustled to 20 victories in the last 27 games, winning 13 of the last 16, and jumped from sixth, 8½ games behind, to within seven percentage points of the first-place Milwaukee Braves. Trouble is, they were only three points out of the lead at this stage a year ago—then went into a late-June swoon that dumped them out of the race for a fourth-place finish, 17 games behind.

The Red Birds moved in on the Braves Wednesday night, sweeping Pittsburgh 5-2 and 5-1 in a twi-night double-header as Milwaukee's Bob Buhl cut the Braves' skid at three games with his third consecutive four-hitter in a 6-0 victory over the New York Giants.

Cincinnati ended its four-game slump, coming from behind on home runs to beat Brooklyn 4-3, leaving the Redlegs and Dodgers two games behind with the Brooks in third place by two percentage points. Philadelphia slipped to fifth, 2½ behind, with a twin loss at Chicago, 9-0 and 4-3.

In the American League, Chicago's White Sox held on to a 2½-game lead with a 3-1 decision at Baltimore after the second place New York Yankees had upped their winning streak to six games with a 10-2 breeze against Detroit. Third place Cleveland lost 6-0 at Boston. Kansas City joined Baltimore in sixth place, rallying in the ninth to defeat Washington, 6-3.

The Cardinals, a surprising 24-10 road club, gained a 9-14 record at home with their fifth doubleheader sweep of the year (they won only four all last season).

Sam Jones won his fourth in the Cardinal opener, striking out 10 and limiting the Bucs to only four hits after the first inning. The Cards broke a 2-all tie with three in the seventh. Hobie Landrith's double drove home the winner and Joe Cunningham then packed it away with a two-run pinch homer as Ron Kline lost his 10th.

Wally Moon swatted a two-run homer as the Redbirds scored three in the nightcap first against Bob Purkey. Stan Musial hit his 15th homer and stretched his hitting streak to 19 games as young Lindy McDaniel won his seventh.

Buhl got a quick lead as Henry Aaron matched Yankee Mickey Mantle for the major league homer lead with his 19th in the third inning. Wes Covington added a three-run homer in the fifth. Ruben Gomez, who has won nine, lost his fourth.

Both Redleg homers were two-run jobs in the seventh, with Bob Thurman delivering his fourth pinch-hit shot ahead of Don Hoak's clincher. Tom Acker won his seventh, shutting out the Brooks until they scored three in sixth, two on Elmer Valo's home run.

Ernie Banks and Walt Moryn, each belting two home runs for the day, connected for successive wallops in the nightcap eighth to win for young Moe Drabowsky. Rookie Dick Drott won his sixth with a three-hitter and eight strikeouts in the opener.

Two walks and RBI singles by Jim Rivera and Bubba Phillips produced two second-inning runs for the White Sox, who were outhit 9-6. Bob Keegan won it. Art Ceccarelli was the loser.

The Yankees went on a 15-hit tear against seven-game winner Duke Maas and two Tiger relievers with Yogi Berra hitting a three-run homer and Gil McDougald poking a two-run home run. Tom Sturdivant won his sixth.

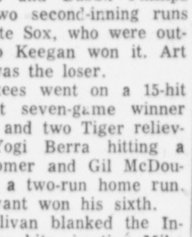

Frank Sullivan blanked the Indians on five hits, beating Mike Garcia as the Red Sox, who had lost four in a row, scored four in the fourth, two on Frank Malzone's double. Jimmy Piersall and Sammy White homered for Boston.

Virgil Trucks won his sixth in relief for the A's, breaking a 3-all tie with an RBI single. Ex-Yankee Billy Martin then hit a two-run homer.

Tribe Blanked On Five Hits

BOSTON (AP)—Just as they hurt for pitching during their month stand earlier this month, the Cleveland Indians are now hurting for catchers as the rubber game of their first series in an Eastern trip comes up today.

Jim Hegan, first string backstop, is out for about 10 days with a pulled leg muscle, and his alternate, Hal Naragon, turned up Wednesday with a fractured finger. Naragon may be out three weeks.

So rookie third-stringer Russ Nixon will catch Early Wynn today.

The Bosox evened the current series and their season's record against Cleveland by blanking the Tribe 6-0 Wednesday. Long Frank Sullivan allowed the Indians only five hits, two of them doubles by Rocky Colavito. He fanned six and walked only two.

Mike Garcia was nicked for four runs in the fourth inning and went down to his fourth defeat against two victories. The final two Boston runs were homers by Jim Piersall off Garcia in the fifth and by Sammy White off Stan Pitula in the seventh.

A freak accident in the ninth inning Wednesday felled Roger Maris, but the rookie outfielder was not hurt seriously, X-rays showed later. White was returning the ball to Sullivan and the catcher's throw struck Maris above the left ear.

Reds Break Losing Streak

CINCINNATI (AP)—Bob Thurman and Don Hoak combined their home run hitting talents Wednesday night to give Cincinnati a 4-3 victory over the Dodgers.

Thurman blasted a pinch hit home run with one on. It was the fourth time this season he has come through with a homer while appearing as a pinch hitter. He has a total of eight homers for the season.

Hoak, who formerly played with the Dodgers and then the Chicago Cubs with little or no batting success, got the game-winning two-run homer. It was the fourth he has hit against the Brooks this season. He has a total of 10.

The tight pitching duel between Tom Acker and Don Drysale Wednesday night was something to behold for five innings.

The Dodgers got to Acker for three runs in the sixth on a single by Junior Gilliam, a sacrifice, a single by Duke Snider and then Elmer Valo's home run.

Drysale stayed out of trouble until the seventh. Then Frank Robinson doubled, and Thurman then came through with his home run. Ted Kluszewski came through with a pinch hit double that brought Clem Labine in to relieve Drysdale got Johnny Temple but Hoak then cracked his homer.

Tribe Blanked On Five Hits

BOSTON (AP)—Just as they hurt for pitching during their month stand earlier this month, the Cleveland Indians are now hurting for catchers as the rubber game of their first series in an Eastern trip comes up today.

Jim Hegan, first string backstop, is out for about 10 days with a pulled leg muscle, and his alternate, Hal Naragon, turned up Wednesday with a fractured finger. Naragon may be out three weeks.

So rookie third-stringer Russ Nixon will catch Early Wynn today.

The Bosox evened the current series and their season's record against Cleveland by blanking the Tribe 6-0 Wednesday. Long Frank Sullivan allowed the Indians only five hits, two of them doubles by Rocky Colavito. He fanned six and walked only two.

Mike Garcia was nicked for four runs in the fourth inning and went down to his fourth defeat against two victories. The final two Boston runs were homers by Jim Piersall off Garcia in the fifth and by Sammy White off Stan Pitula in the seventh.

A freak accident in the ninth inning Wednesday felled Roger Maris, but the rookie outfielder was not hurt seriously, X-rays showed later. White was returning the ball to Sullivan and the catcher's throw struck Maris above the left ear.

Reds Break Losing Streak

CINCINNATI (AP)—Bob Thurman and Don Hoak combined their home run hitting talents Wednesday night to give Cincinnati a 4-3 victory over the Dodgers.

Thurman blasted a pinch hit home run with one on. It was the fourth time this season he has come through with a homer while appearing as a pinch hitter. He has a total of eight homers for the season.

Hoak, who formerly played with the Dodgers and then the Chicago Cubs with little or no batting success, got the game-winning two-run homer. It was the fourth he has hit against the Brooks this season. He has a total of 10.

The tight pitching duel between Tom Acker and Don Drysale Wednesday night was something to behold for five innings.

The Dodgers got to Acker for three runs in the sixth on a single by Junior Gilliam, a sacrifice, a single by Duke Snider and then Elmer Valo's home run.

Drysale stayed out of trouble until the seventh. Then Frank Robinson doubled, and Thurman then came through with his home run. Ted Kluszewski came through with a pinch hit double that brought Clem Labine in to relieve Drysdale got Johnny Temple but Hoak then cracked his homer.

Cubs Beat Kernels Beforet he Deadline

Helped by the time deadline, the Cubs chalked up their third straight victory and moved into a second place tie with the Kernels by beating the hapless Realtors 11-10 in a Little League game Wednesday evening.

The game was first declared a tie at 11-all, but after a discussion of the situation Thursday morning by the Little league officials, the game was awarded to the Cubs.

The reason for the Cubs getting the victory is this: A game is declared complete after four full innings of play, and since the Realtors-Cubs game only went four and one half innings, the game reverts back to the fourth inning.

At the end of the fourth inning the Cubs were leading by a score of 11 to 10. The game continued into the top of the fifth inning although it was nearing the time deadline. The Cubs did not get to bat in their half of the inning before the deadline and the game reverted back to the last complete inning of play (the fourth) and the score at that time.

Gary Mickle started on the mound for the Realors and went all the way although the Cubs pounded him for 11 runs and 8 hits in the game. Gary Kimball and Pat Lewis shared the pitching duties for the Cubs, with Kimball whiffing eight Realtors.

Paul Shaltry led the now potent Cub attack with three hits in three at bats, while Gary Burris, Donnie Wilson, and Ronnie Owen each got two hits for the Realtors.

No Place Like ...

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Manuel Bond walked to his home after 48 days in jail to spend a few restful nours in his favorite easy chair.

But there was no chair. In fact, there was no home. All Bond could find was an empty lot.

Seems as if the Indianapolis Redevelopment Commission couldn't find Bond so they had to go ahead and tea his house down for a slum clearance project.

Bond never did find out what happened to his easy chair.

News for Blind

Jaques Saphier, the photographer, cuts the records with the help of bedridden patients at Bergen Pines Hospital. Then they are distributed to the blind.

The records are regulation size and play on any phonograph. Because of its success the program is being expanded by northern New Jersey Rotary clubs.

Cubs Beat Kernels Beforet he Deadline

Helped by the time deadline, the Cubs chalked up their third straight victory and moved into a second place tie with the Kernels by beating the hapless Realtors 11-10 in a Little League game Wednesday evening.

The game was first declared a tie at 11-all, but after a discussion of the situation Thursday morning by the Little league officials, the game was awarded to the Cubs.

The reason for the Cubs getting the victory is this: A game is declared complete after four full innings of play, and since the Realtors-Cubs game only went four and one half innings, the game reverts back to the fourth inning.

At the end of the fourth inning the Cubs were leading by a score of 11 to 10. The game continued into the top of the fifth inning, although it was nearing the time deadline. The Cubs did not get to bat in their half of the inning before the deadline and the game reverted back to the last complete inning of play (the fourth) and the score at that time.

Gary Mickle started on the mound for the Realors and went all the way although the Cubs pounded him for 11 runs and 8 hits in the game. Gary Kimball and Pat Lewis shared the pitching duties for the Cubs, with Kimball whiffing eight Realtors.

Paul Shaltry led the now potent Cub attack with three hits in three at bats, while Gary Burris, Donnie Wilson, and Ronnie Owen each got two hits for the Realtors.

No Place Like ...

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Manuel Bond walked to his home after 48 days in jail to spend a few restful nours in his favorite easy chair.

But there was no chair. In fact, there was no home. All Bond could find was an empty lot.

Seems as if the Indianapolis Redevelopment Commission couldn't find Bond so they had to go ahead and tea his house down for a slum clearance project.

Bond never did find out what happened to his easy chair.

News for Blind

Jaques Saphier, the photographer, cuts the records with the help of bedridden patients at Bergen Pines Hospital. Then they are distributed to the blind.

The records are regulation size and play on any phonograph. Because of its success the program is being expanded by northern New Jersey Rotary clubs.

U. N. Report Hits Soviet Slaughter In Hungry Revolt

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — A U. N. committee said today that the people's will for independence in Hungary "has only been strengthened" by the Soviet army's undenied suppression of the uprising in that country last October and November.

But the General Assembly's Special Committee on Hungary also declared that Soviet arms had dashed hopes of "the immense majority" for political rights and fundamental freedoms now.

It said that the Communist regime of Premier Janos Kadar, installed by the Russians, has no popular support and that rigid Communist controls momentarily removed by the uprising "are being reimposed step by step."

In a 391-page report to the Assembly, the five-nation investigating committee accused Soviet troops of indiscriminate slaughter of women and children, mass arrests, summary executions and thousands of deportations. It said estimates of Soviet forces in Hungary varied from 75,000 to 200,000 men with 1,600 to 4,000 tanks.

THE COMMITTEE reported many of the soldiers apparently were Mongols and Tartars from Central Asia who had been told they were being sent to Egypt to throw back "Anglo-French imperialists" and therefore "mistook the Danube for the Suez Canal." It estimated that 2,500 to 3,000 people died in the fighting.

The committee said they were "deeply shocked" at the "appalling" tortures used by the Hungarian secret police, which they described as "all-powerful, pitiless and unabashed by any shameful act."

The 81-nation Assembly created the small-power committee last Jan. 10 to investigate Russian supression of the Hungarian revolt after the Communists refused to admit U.N. observers to the satellite country.

Barred by the Reds from Hungary, the five committeemen took some 2,000 pages of testimony from 111 Hungarians — all recent refugees — at hearings in New York, Geneva, Rome, Vienna and London.

Supreme Court OKs Review of Pinball Laws

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has agreed to review Columbus' ordinances banning pinball machines.

The ordinances were challenged by Ray M. Benjamin and G. D Ferguson, who obtained an injunction against them in Common Pleas Court. The court ruled the ordinances were invalid because they prevent pinball games "for amusement only."

Appellate Court, however, reversed Common Pleas Court and said the ordinances are valid. The Supreme Court Wednesday agreed to review the case.

In another action, the high court refused to stay execution of judgment in the disbarment of J. Harvey Crow of Urbana so he could practice law pending disposition of his appeal to the Supreme Court.

The bit has knobs on the three wheels instead of cogs or teeth like the bits formery used in the well.

The new drill was started down at 11:30 p.m. Wednesday, and was still in use Thursday afternoon.

Cleveland Hospital Fugitive Sought

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Toledo police were on the lookout today for Thomas B. Grayson, a 49-year-old Holgate, Ohio, druggist who escaped from custody Wednesday at Cleveland State Receiving Hospital.

The FBI said Grayson might come to Toledo since he has made threats against U.S. District Judge Frank L. Kloeb, federal authorities and an attorney who represented him in an income tax case.

House Committee Cuts Postal Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee told the Post Office Department today to curtail some of its mail services and live within its reduced funds to avoid repetition of "the fiscal debacle of the spring of 1957."

It cut 16½ million dollars from the department's request for an extra 149½ millions to supplement a previous appropriation of $3,192,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Indications were the House would go along with the committee's recommendations when it considers the new money bill next week.

Postmaster General Summerfield told the committee some service curtailments would be put into effect if the entire request were not granted. The committee said some of the curtailments seem to be 'very desirable" and should have been ordered before now.

* * *

IT SAID it could see "no substantial reason why second-class publications and third-class bulk mailings should not be required to be zoned in the face of a stated savings to the government of five million dollars."

Under the postal zoning system, rates increase as the delivery distance increases.

The committee said it saw no reason why star route service should not be reduced to once daily where practicable at an estimated saving of $700,000.

On star points, mail is transported by contractors between some post offices and rail terminals, or between larger postoffices and small postoffices.

OTHER savings, the committee said, could be made by suspending money order sales in some offices and by cutting down on some Saturday services.

The committee said the department should re-examine city delivery service in the light of the trend to a five-day work week and "effect such reductions in Saturday service as are in keeping with the pattern of business, industry and suburbia generally."

Some committee members have said in the past there is no reason for numerous business-mail deliveries on Saturdays when most business houses are closed.

Serious consideration should be given, the committee said, to eliminating cost-of-living salary differentials paid postal employes in territories and possessions, with the possible exception of Alaska.

Sub Blockade Warning Voiced

Israel Deems Move As 'Lightning Fire'

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel warned Egypt Wednesday night against trying to blockade the Gulf of Aqaba with three submarines newly acquired from the Soviet Union.

A government broadcast beamed to Egypt said use of the subs to cut off ships from the southern Israeli port of Eilat, at the head of the gulf, would be "lighting the fires" leading to Egyptian suicide.

Egypt confirmed Tuesday she had bought the submarines and they had joined her fleet in Egyptian waters. They are believed to be the first undersea craft acquired by any Middle Eastern country.

Israel feared they would be used to reimpose the blockade of Eilat, which Israeli troops ended last fall by destroying the Egyptian shore guns overlooking the Gulf of Aqaba. The gun positions are now occupied by troops of the U.N. Emergency Force.

SHIPS now operate through the gulf to and from Eilat without interference, despite protests from Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Jordan that the gulf is Arab territorial water.

Without giving details, the director general of the Israeli Defense Ministry said in a speech at Haifa that Israel is taking measures against possible submarine action. The official, Simon Peres, added that Israel will defend the open seas and will not "sit on folded hands" when its enemies are being equipped with arms to destroy Israel.

Special Deputy At CCC Project

Sheriff Hays Acts To Curb Accidents

A special deputy sheriff went on duty at the scene of construction work on the CCC Highway, east, Wednesday as a part of a sheriff's crackdown to reduce traffic accidents there.

Sheriff Orland Hays said he appointed Rankin Burson, 52, of Milledgeville, to the post, in a fullscale program of "strict construction traffic enforcement."

Speed limits of 45 miles per hour on the highway near the project and 25 miles per hour within the project area itself will be "strictly enforced," Sheriff Hays said.

* * *

TWO MOTOR vehicle collisions in the construction area have been reported to law enforcement officers since work got underway several weeks ago.

"And that's got to stop," the sheriff said.

Burson, who worked four years at the Frigidare Co. plant near Dayton before taking the post, will have full police powers over motorists in the area. Although he will not have a cruiser at the scene, he will be in regular contact with the sheriff's Washington C. H. office.

A longtime resident of Fayette County, Burson and Mrs. Burson have six children. His salary will be paid by the Jurgenson Construction Co., contractor for the highway project.

Judge Dice Back From Conference

Municipal Court Judge Max G. Dice returned Thursday after spending two days at Ohio State University for a Traffic Court Conference.

Judge Dice left after court Tuesday and returned Wednesday night from the conference, where judges, city solicitors and prosecuting attorneys listened to lectures and discussed common problems regarding traffic court cases.

Wednesday's Municipal Court session here was rescheduled for Thursday, which is normally a court 'day off' here, so that the judge could attend the session.

Federal Land Bank System Described to Realtor Group

"There is not one cent of government money in the Federal Land Bank System today," Richard Whiteside, secretary-treasurer of the Farmers National Farm Loan Assn. here told the Tri-County Real Estate Board at its dinner meeting at the Turner Restaurant in Leesburg Wednesday night.

Whiteside traced the history of government aid in financing and outlined policies and procedures of the Federal Land Bank System for members of the Tri-County Board from Fayette, Clinton and Highland counties at the meeting.

The Farm Loan Assn. here serves Fayette, Clinton and Madison counties, but is operations parallel those of a similar association which serves Highland County.

WHITESIDE explained that the Farm Loan Assn. is now owned by the farmer-borrowers, who are required to purchase stock in the Federal Land Bank equal to 5 per cent of their loans. This investment by the borrowers has retired the government capital with which the bank was founded, he said.

When a loan is paid in full, he pointed out, the stock in the association is retired in cash at par value. Many members, he added, apply their stock as part of their final loan payment.

The Federal Land Bank, Whiteside said, provides long term credit for farmers in the form of mortgage loans through National Farm Loan Assns. Interest rates. he said, are comparable to those of other farm loans from such sources as banks and insurance companies.

Services of the Federal Land Bank System are available to those who can quality and whose security meets loan requirements, he said, pointing out they may borrow up to 65 per cent of the appraised normal agricultural value of the farm.

A LOAN may be made, he said, to purchase land, improve the farm, pay living expenses, for taxes and owner would have."

Farm Loan Assns., White explained, are governed by a board of directors elected from the membership and the directors, in turn, employ a secretary-treasurer to handle the day-by-day affairs.

Whiteside was the principal speaker of the meeting which followed a brief business session conducted by the Tri-County Board president, Tom Mark.

L. P. Brackney was appointed registration chairman for the convention of Ohio Realtors to be held in Toledo. Mark was delegated to attend the quarterly meeting of the Ohio Assn. of Real Estate Boards in Columbus June 26.

The Tri-County Board's next meeting will be a family picnic at Rocky Fork Lake July 24.

Realtors at the meeting from here were Mac Dews Sr., Ben F. Norris, Brackney, Charles Mustine, Mark. and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Orr.

Supreme Court OKs Review of Pinball Laws

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has agreed to review Columbus' ordinances banning pinball machines.

The ordinances were challenged by Ray M. Benjamin and G. D Ferguson, who obtained an injunction against them in Common Pleas Court. The court ruled the ordinances were invalid because they prevent pinball games "for amusement only."

Appellate Court, however, reversed Common Pleas Court and said the ordinances are valid. The Supreme Court Wednesday agreed to review the case.

In another action, the high court refused to stay execution of judgment in the disbarment of J. Harvey Crow of Urbana so he could practice law pending disposition of his appeal to the Supreme Court.

Cleveland Hospital Fugitive Sought

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Toledo police were on the lookout today for Thomas B. Grayson, a 49-year-old Holgate, Ohio, druggist who escaped from custody Wednesday at Cleveland State Receiving Hospital.

The FBI said Grayson might come to Toledo since he has made threats against U.S. District Judge Frank L. Kloeb, federal authorities and an attorney who represented him in an income tax case.

House Committee Cuts Postal Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee told the Post Office Department today to curtail some of its mail services and live within its reduced funds to avoid repetition of "the fiscal debacle of the spring of 1957."

It cut 16½ million dollars from the department's request for an extra 149½ millions to supplement a previous appropriation of $3,192,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Indications were the House would go along with the committee's recommendations when it considers the new money bill next week.

Postmaster General Summerfield told the committee some service curtailments would be put into effect if the entire request were not granted. The committee said some of the curtailments seem to be 'very desirable" and should have been ordered before now.

* * *

IT SAID it could see "no substantial reason why second-class publications and third-class bulk mailings should not be required to be zoned in the face of a stated savings to the government of five million dollars."

Under the postal zoning system, rates increase as the delivery distance increases.

The committee said it saw no reason why star route service should not be reduced to once daily where practicable at an estimated saving of $700,000.

On star points, mail is transported by contractors between some post offices and rail terminals, or between larger postoffices and small postoffices.

OTHER savings, the committee said, could be made by suspending money order sales in some offices and by cutting down on some Saturday services.

The committee said the department should re-examine city delivery service in the light of the trend to a five-day work week and "effect such reductions in Saturday service as are in keeping with the pattern of business, industry and suburbia generally."

Some committee members have said in the past there is no reason for numerous business-mail deliveries on Saturdays when most business houses are closed.

Serious consideration should be given, the committee said, to eliminating cost-of-living salary differentials paid postal employes in territories and possessions, with the possible exception of Alaska.

Sub Blockade Warning Voiced

Israel Deems Move As 'Lightning Fire'

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel warned Egypt Wednesday night against trying to blockade the Gulf of Aqaba with three submarines newly acquired from the Soviet Union.

A government broadcast beamed to Egypt said use of the subs to cut off ships from the southern Israeli port of Eilat, at the head of the gulf, would be "lighting the fires" leading to Egyptian suicide.

Egypt confirmed Tuesday she had bought the submarines and they had joined her fleet in Egyptian waters. They are believed to be the first undersea craft acquired by any Middle Eastern country.

Israel feared they would be used to reimpose the blockade of Eilat, which Israeli troops ended last fall by destroying the Egyptian shore guns overlooking the Gulf of Aqaba. The gun positions are now occupied by troops of the U.N. Emergency Force.

SHIPS now operate through the gulf to and from Eilat without interference, despite protests from Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Jordan that the gulf is Arab territorial water.

Without giving details, the director general of the Israeli Defense Ministry said in a speech at Haifa that Israel is taking measures against possible submarine action. The official, Simon Peres, added that Israel will defend the open seas and will not "sit on folded hands" when its enemies are being equipped with arms to destroy Israel.

Special Deputy At CCC Project

Sheriff Hays Acts To Curb Accidents

A special deputy sheriff went on duty at the scene of construction work on the CCC Highway, east, Wednesday as a part of a sheriff's crackdown to reduce traffic accidents there.

Sheriff Orland Hays said he appointed Rankin Burson, 52, of Milledgeville, to the post, in a fullscale program of "strict construction traffic enforcement."

Speed limits of 45 miles per hour on the highway near the project and 25 miles per hour within the project area itself will be "strictly enforced," Sheriff Hays said.

TWO MOTOR vehicle collisions in the construction area have been reported to law enfotcement officers since work got underway several weeks ago.

"And that's got to stop," the sheriff said.

Burson, who worked four years at the Frigidare Co. plant near Dayton before taking the post, will have full police powers over motorists in the area. Although he will not have a cruiser at the scene, he will be in regular contact with the sheriff's Washington C. H. office.

A longtime resident of Fayette County, Burson and Mrs. Burson have six children. His salary will be paid by the Jurgenson Construction Co., contractor for the highway project.

Federal Land Bank System Described to Realtor Group

"There is not one cent of government money in the Federal Land Bank System today," Richard Whiteside, secretary-treasurer of the Farmers National Farm Loan Assn. here told the Tri-County Real Estate Board at its dinner meeting at the Turner Restaurant in Leesburg Wednesday night.

Whiteside traced the history of government aid in financing and outlined policies and procedures of the Federal Land Bank System for members of the Tri-County Board from Fayette, Clinton and Highland counties at the meeting.

The Farm Loan Assn. here serves Fayette, Clinton and Madison counties, but is operations parallel those of a similar association which serves Highland County.

WHITESIDE explained that the Farm Loan Assn. is now owned by the farmer-borrowers, who are required to purchase stock in the Federal Land Bank equal to 5 per cent of their loans. This investment by the borrowers has retired the government capital with which the bank was founded, he said.

When a loan is paid in full, he pointed out, the stock in the association is retired in cash at par value. Many members, he added, apply their stock as part of their final loan payment.

The Federal Land Bank, Whiteside said, provides long term credit for farmers in the form of mortgage loans through National Farm Loan Assns. Interest rates. he said, are comparable to those of other farm loans from such sources as banks and insurance companies.

Services of the Federal Land Bank System are available to those who can quality and whose security meets loan requirements, he said, pointing out they may borrow up to 65 per cent of the appraised normal agricultural value of the farm.

A LOAN may be made, he said, to purchase land, improve the farm, pay living expenses, for taxes and owner would have."

Farm Loan Assns., White explained, are governed by a board of directors elected from the membership and the directors, in turn, employ a secretary-treasurer to handle the day-by-day affairs.

Whiteside was the principal speaker of the meeting which followed a brief business session conducted by the Tri-County Board president, Tom Mark.

L. P. Brackney was appointed registration chairman for the convention of Ohio Realtors to be held in Toledo. Mark was delegated to attend the quarterly meeting of the Ohio Assn. of Real Estate Boards in Columbus June 26.

The Tri-County Board's next meeting will be a family picnic at Rocky Fork Lake July 24.
